4 Items - Unclaimed

4.1 Chisel Teeth × 7

These teeth come from the maw of a rockwyrn. They are flat and around 1 inch wide by 9 inches long. They weigh 2 oz, each, and can be ground to make various types of cold chisel; flat, cape, diamond point and round nose and are much harder than steel.

An atrisan who is working with metal or masonry will have their Skill improved by 10% for an operation that involves their use.

4.2 Rockwyrn Egg × 2

This egg is so large that only orcs or hill giants are able to swallow it without assistance, others would have to have their jaw dislocated or broken before it can be passed down the gullet.

Once it arrives in the stomach, it will become dormant, and only become active again if the consumer's EN value falls below 1, whereupon, it will restore 20 DP, the remains of the egg being eliminated some time later.

4.3 Pale Dwarven Chain Shirt

This chain shirt is made from a magical alloy of steel that is dove grey in colour and reaches to just above the knee. It has a weight factor of 5, and is size 4 but may be cut down to size 3 at a cost of 40 tsg.

It - penalises Cast Checks by 5 - reduces AG by 2 - halves the damage of B Class weapons on the Sword table (rounding up) before applying its Protection - provides 6 Protection - increases Magic Resistance by 6

Racial magic is unaffected.

4.4 Potion of Transfer Disease

This phial is made from jaundice, is 3 inches long, 1/2 an inch wide and weighs 7 oz.

When it is taken, any diseases currently being suffered are transferred to the next person they make physical contact with. The victim may roll percentiles and add their EN value to the result. If they generate a value of 100 or higher, they have avoided this fate. Enchantments are never applied to this roll.

4.5 Pale Dwarven Warhammer

The head of this warhammer is made from a steel that is dove grey in colour, and the haft is an unworked shaft of bitterthorn. This is a wood that makes it possible to equip or divest it with a Free Act since it will attach to woollen clothing without requiring special attachment.

The face at one end is a standard hammer, the other being a wickedly sharp grey splinter, 4 inches in length. It weighs 3 lbs, requires PS 14 & MD 13. Bearing this weapon inflicts a 5 point penalty to the Casting of non-Racial Magic.

It has a base Strike Chance of 57%, a range of 7 hexes and inflicts 2 rollup D10 damage. In the event that a Possible Specific Grievous injury is scored, then the default is that it is a C Class Specific Grievous injury unless the wielder specifies they are inflicting A Class damage. At Rank 5, A or C Class Specific Grievous injuries are applied without any specification being required.

4.6 Scorpion Class Crossbow

This small crossbow is 20 inches long, with an untensioned limb 14 inches across and weighs 2 lbs. It requires PS of 7 and MD of 18 to wield, has a base Strike Chance of 65% and inflicts 2 rollup D5 A Class damage to a range of 20 hexes. This weapon is advanced as a Crossbow. It requires a Pass Action to load, and it is a finesse weapon, so damage is increased by 1 for every 5 points of MD in excess of 18. Excess PS is not considered.

4.7 Hood of Shadows

This six-sided prism is capped at each end by six-sided pyramids of very dark smokey quartz. It is two inches long, one inch across and weighs 3 oz. It is attached to a bronze pin and is used to secure a cloak around the bearer's neck.

When the word 'Capucce' is uttered, an illusory hood appears over the head, obscuring the bearer's features with a veil of impenetrable shadows.

Even if the hood is detected as illusory, the bearer's features cannot be made out by mortal means.

While the hood is manifest, the wearer's PC replaces their AG for the purposes of determining their base Defence, unless their AG is higher.

4.8 Bracers of Opposability

These steel, fish-scaled bracers are chased with bronze and magically resize themselves to fit the wearer. Together, they weigh 1 1/2 pounds and prevent a wearer from Casting anything other than Racial Magic.

The bracers hold a reactive force that directly counters kinetic and spell attacks across the wearer's body and provide 5 Protection, 7 Spell Armour, 4 Magic Resistance and 5 Willpower. This Spell Armour applies to the usual damage spells including Disruption, but not Putrid Wound, Necrosis or magic of that kind.

The bracers do not stack with other armour, unless specified otherwise and the wearer has a 30% chance to avoid Specific Grievous injuries to the arm, wrist & hand, as listed below:

Roll	Effect
01 – 05	Congratulations! It's a bleeder in your primary arm! Take 1 Damage Point from Endurance immediately and 1 per pulse thereafter until the flow is staunched by a Healer of Rank 0 or above or you die.
09 – 10	You have been stabbed in your secondary arm. Drop whatever you were holding in it and take 2 Damage Points immediately from Endurance. It will take a full week for the arm to be of any use to you whatsoever.
26 – 27	Bad luck! Your secondary hand has been severed at the wrist. Take 2 Damage Points to Endurance immediately and 1 point per pulse from Fatigue thereafter (Endurance when Fatigue is exhausted) until you are dead or the bleeding is staunched by a Healer of Rank 0 or above. If you live, reduce your MD by 2.
28 – 30	Worst luck! Your primary hand has been severed. Take 2 Damage Points to Endurance immediately, and 1 point per Pulse from Fatigue thereafter (Endurance, when Fatigue is exhausted) until you are dead or the bleeding is staunched by a haler of Rank 0 or above. If you live, reduce your MD by 2.
44 – 50	A slash along one arm, and it's a bleeder! Take 2 Damage Points immediately from Endurance and lose 1 point from Fatigue (Endurance when Fatigue is exhausted) each pulse until the bleeding is stopped by a Healer of Rank 1 or above or you die.
53 - 60	Your primary arm is crippled by a wicked slash! Take 2 damage Points immediately to Endurance and drop anything you have in your primary hand. The arm is unusable until healed, which should take 2 months.
61 – 67	Your secondary arm is crippled by a wicked slash! Take 2 damage Points immediately to Endurance and drop anything you have in your primary hand. The arm is unusable until healed, which should take 2 months.

If a point of Endurance is sacrificed to the bracers, then the countering force will slightly deflect edged attacks. As a consequence, B Class damage from claws and weapons on the Swords table is halved before Protection or Damage Reduction is applied.

If another point of Endurance is sacrificed to the bracers, then the wearer grows a pair of retractable thumbs. While this does not immediately make them a gifted sculptor or Mechanician, it does allow them to pick up small objects, manipulate them, use tools, open doors and so on. In particular, it doubles the size of an object they can hold in one hand from around 3 inches across to as much as 6 inches.

Endurance can be bought back in the usual way.

4.9 Bearded Hand Axe

The blade of this hand axe has been carved from black jade and bound to a short length of raw hickory sapling. It weighs 2 lbs.

It has a base Strike Chance of 47%, inflicts 1 rollup D10 + 1 rollup D5 B Class Damage and may be thrown to a range of 8 hexes.

If wielded in the right hand, it ignores off-hand penalties and increases Defence across the wielder's front melee hexes by half their MD + 2 per Rank in the weapon - all fractions are truncated.

4.10 Brazen Greataxe

This greataxe has a head made from a yellow non-ferrous metal that will turn a dark, chocolate brown over the passing of a week. It takes an hour with an oily rag to return it to its original colour. It weighs 6 lbs, has a base Strike Chance of 71% and inflicts 2 rollup D10 B Class damage. Damage increases by 1 at Rank 2, 3, 5 & 7 and any bonuses from the Warrior Skill. Bonuses for every 5 points of PS in excess of 19 also stacks, and there is no chance of weapon breakage if it does not exceed 34.

It accepts any weapon spell that is legal, but only benefits from increases to Strike Chance, not damage.

4.11 Lignam Vitae Chest

This chest has internal dimensions that are 1 yard wide × 20" high × 20" deep, and the panels are 3/4 inch thick. It weighs 117 lbs, 12 oz.

It is a rare, well-crafted product worth 6 tsg, 8gs, 11sp and 2cf.

4.12 Copper Brazier × 2

This copper brazier is 10 inches in diameter, is 3 1/2 inches high and stands on 3 small wooden legs. The depth of each bowl is 3 inches. Both of them have a faint magical aura, which is minor but extends the duration of a fire lit in them by an hour by halving the amount of heat they generate.

They are rare and each one is worth 4 gs and 2 sp.

4.13 Small Cask of Beeswax × 5

Each cask is wooden, 1 foot long and 9 inches in diameter, holding 26lbs 4oz of beeswax. Each is common, worth 2gs 11sp.

4.14 Sack of Silver Sling Bullets × 6

Each of these sacks contains 20 silver bullets weighing 1 lb each. Each is uncommon and worth 20 sp each. They are the same weight and quality as coinage but none have been minted.

4.15 Copper Scroll of Discipline and Mental Fortitude

24 hours after this scroll is opened, it will crumble to a greenish dust. Whoever reads from this scroll for 4 hours may advance their FT by 1 per Adventure or Season, whichever is least.

There is no upper limit to which their FT value can ascend.

4.16 Rod of Fear

This sceptre has an ebon haft and a head in the shape of a fist made from black bronze and weighs 3 lbs. It has a base Strike Chance of 57%, inflicts D10 + 5 C Class damage and has a range of 7 hexes.

Three times a day, resetting at midnight, the wielder may point this weapon at a legal target within range of their Fear spell as a part of the Cast Action. If the target fails to Resist the magic, then the Rank of the Spell and the Rank of this weapon are added to the result of the Fright Check.

4.17 Carpet of the Just

This rugged woollen carpet is 3 ft 7 inches across and 7 feet long, weighing 4 lbs. A winged lion with a man's head looks out from the centre of the carpet from a dark blue background, with crimson geometrical figures around the edge.

If the owner has not committed a crime that day, the first time they sleep on it, that sleep is treated as one hour longer, so seven hours is considered eight. When they rise, they get an extra opportunity to "tough it out" in terms of recovering from infection.

4.18 Mark of the Book

This bookmark is made from tasselled leather, is 8 inches long by 2 inches wide, and weighs 2 drachms. While it is on their person, the owner can tell when night has fallen, day has broken, when it is noon and midnight.

Once per day, resetting at dawn, it allows the owner and up to 30 lbs of their gear to take the form of a book bound in red leather. It is 7 inches wide by 9 inches long, 2 inches thick and weighs 3 lbs 7 oz. The owner can imprint a name for the book in a language that they are literate in on the spine, the front and the frontispiece, but the rest of the book is The Epic of Gilgamesh. In Sumerian cuneiform.

In this form, they are aware and have all of their senses except for smell or taste, which can be worrying since they're flammable. The range of their vision and hearing is 40 feet.

While transfigured, they may not be scried for or located by magic unless the seeker knows to look for a cuneiform version of the Epic of Gilgamesh.

They can end the transfiguration at any time by taking a Pass Action, but in any case, it will end at the next nightfall, daybreak, midnight or noon.

4.19 Black Sands Herbs

4.19.1 Mastic Thyme

Description A compact, thorny, intensely dense cushion-shrub. In the summer heat, its green leaves shrivel into tiny scales to protect its water supply, and it erupts in small clusters of pale pink or purple flowers. It is incredibly scratchy and painful to harvest without leather gloves. It releases a burning, savory, and strongly pungent blast of hot oregano and black pepper.

Care This herb likes a sunny prospect with well-drained soil. It requires very little attention, and benefits from an elevated plot.

Use Aggressively antiseptic and antifungal. Preserves food

Preparation Distilled and suspended at a ratio of 1/3 in a 1/10 alcohol/water tincture. When an ounce is applied to a fresh wound, the chance of infection is divided by 3.

4.19.2 Syrian Rue

Description A sprawling, bright green, succulent-like plant with jagged, narrow leaves that grows in dense, circular mats out of harsh, cracked earth. It produces small, five-petaled white flowers. The leaves feel thick and rubbery. When torn, it produces a sharp, unpleasantly bitter, and heavily polecat odour that smells strongly of wild animal musk.

Care This herb likes a sunny prospect with well-drained soil. It requires very little attention, and benefits from an elevated plot.

Use creates ritual visions

Preparation A 3 inch chime candle 1/2 an inch in diameter is infused with a tablespoon of these seeds. If it is lit while Purifying, increase MA by an extra point for the duration

4.20 Burning Crossbow

This heavy crossbow encumbers for 20 lbs, requires PS of 20 and MD of 14 to wield but takes 5 Pulses to reload with a cranequin unless PS is 41 or higher, in which case it takes 2 Pulses.

A quarrel bursts into flames upon firing and inflicts 3 rollup D10 + 1 damage, and there is a 71% chance that the target's clothing may, if flammable, burst into flames, and inflict a rollup D5 burning damage until extinguished. It may not be used from surprise unless the wielder is concealed by flames, for example.

The crossbow requires a pint of the blood of an unbaptised child after each midwinter.

4.21 Silver Emblem of Sin

This silver crescent plaque is 3 cms wide from point to point and is 1.5 cms wide at its thickest where it is blazoned with <<<. Two small pearls are set beneath each of the points, and four small moonstones arranged below the blazon and along the curve of the plaque.

All of the gems have been awoken.

4.21.1 The Healing Gift

Requirement Magical Pass Action

Range Touch

Target Living entity

Duration Immediate, during Pulse

Effects This pearl allows the bearer to use their Cure Endurance ability as a Pass Action. Once used, it resets on the next moonrise, if there is one.

4.21.2 Cycle's End

Requirement Reflex Action

Range Self

Target Living entity

Duration Immediate, during Pulse

Effects This moonstone makes the bearer immune to all magic, beneficial or otherwise, for the next three Pulses. At the end of this time, all magic that was in effect is reasserted.

Once used, it resets at dusk on the first night of the dark of the moon.

4.21.3 The Harvest of Days

Requirement Reflex Action

Range Varies

Target Volume

Duration Immediate, during Pulse

Effects This moonstone suspends the passing of time for thirty days in a diameter of 15, 25 or 35 feet across. This reduces the bearer's Endurance value by 10, 15 or 20, respectively. This loss may only be recovered by Natural Healing. Anyone within the volume is able to act as normal, but the effect ends after thirty days have passed or if they leave the volume, whichever happens first, and this ends the Pulse if combat had been engaged.

Once used, it resets at dusk on the Autumnal Equinox.

4.21.4 Eye of Sin

Requirement Magical Pass Action

Range Touch

Target Entity, object or surface

Duration Immediate, during Pulse

The bearer touches this moonstone to an object, entity or surface to perform a Divination or an Ancient Divination. If it is a Divination, then the Cast Chance is 100%, otherwise it is automatically successful.

Once used, it resets at midnight on the next equinox or solstice.

4.21.5 Moon Blessed

Requirement Free Act

Range Self

Target Living entity

Duration Conc. Max. 1 minute

This pearl causes moonlight to suffuse the bearer's hex for a Pulse. Anyone who is either Solar or Lunar aspected within 125 feet will immediately be aware of it, with Solar aspected entities adding 5 to the results of their percentile checks, and Lunar aspected entities subtracting 5 from them for so long as duration persists.

Once it is used, it resets after the passing of three dusks.

4.21.6 Mooncleft

Requirement Special

Range Touch

Target Entity

Duration Varies

Effects The bearer attempts to Strike a lycanthrope, shapechanger or entity under the effects of magic that transfigures, transforms, polymorphs or similar. If successful, they may use a Free Act to trigger this moonstone, which will return the target to their original form unless they Break 100, adding their WP to the result, to avoid it.

Alternatively, if the bearer takes 18 hours in contemplation of Sin, they may remove the curse of Lycanthropy from their target or convert a Shapechanger lost in their beastform to a normal human. This will also convert their Racial Tax modifier to 1.

No Cast Check is made, it is automatically successful. The target loses their Lunar aspect if they had one, and must roll for a new Aspect until they generate one that is not Lunar.

Once used, it resets at dusk of the moonrise on the next Monday, if there is one.

4.22 The Great Bow of the Shire

This bow is sized for hobbits for whom it functions as a composite bow. It is made from layers of horn from a blessed shofar, laminated with gopherwood resin from the land of Goshen. The PS to wield this bow is 14, the MD needed is 15, and it weighs 4 lbs. In the hands of other races, it is a shortbow. It has a base Strike Chance bonus of +12 and damage is increased to a rollup D10 + 3. If the die roll result of a Strike Check is 15% or less of the modified Strike Chance, then an A Class Specific Grievous injury is rolled for. If it falls within 25%, it is a strike directly to Endurance. In the event of a possible Specific Grievous injury, then even if such an injury is not generated, the total damage is tripled.

For hobbits alone, this is a finesse weapon, so that for every 5 points of MD greater than 15, damage is increased by 1, bonuses for excess PS are never applied and for any other race, it can only be fired six times a day.

4.23 Breastplate of Kenite Iron

This breastplate is large enough to fit a humanoid of size 6, and weighs 4 lbs. It is lighter and more resilient than steel and prevents the wearer from using their non-racial spells, talents and rituals.

It can be worn over the top of other leather, scale mail or chainmail, but not exotic armour like dragonskin and the like.

If the wearer takes damage from a Fatigue blow that ends in 3, 4, 5, 6, 7 or 8, they increase the Prot value of their armour by 4, potentially avoiding some or all of it.

The wearer has a 30% chance to entirely avoid a Specific Grievous injury that afflicts their torso:

11 Your aorta is severed and you are quite dead. Rest assured your companions will do their best to console your widow(er).

12 A stomach puncture. Nasty. You suffer 3 Damage Points immediately from Endurance and lose 2 from your TMR until fully recovered, which will take two months. Also, you are automatically stunned for the next pulse (if you aren't already), after which you may

14–18 Tsk, tsk. A wound of the solid viscera. Usually fatal. Take 3 Damage Points to Endurance immediately and 1 per pulse thereafter until the bleeding is stopped by a Healer of Rank 2 or above or you die. Add 30 to the chance of infection.

21–25 A chest wound. Take 2 Damage Points to Endurance immediately and reduce your TMR by 1 until recovered (about 2 months). Look on the bright side, though. Your attacker's weapon is caught in your rib cage and has been wrenched from their grasp. 37–40 You have been eviscerated! Take 4 Damage Points immediately from Endurance and 1 point per pulse from Fatigue thereafter (Endurance when Fatigue is exhausted) until you are unconscious. Increase your chance of infection by 40.

68–69 A nasty slash in the region of the shoulder and neck. Roll D10. On a roll of 1–3, your head is severed and your corpse tumbles to the ground. On a roll of 4–6, your secondary collar bone is crushed; on a roll of 7–10 your primary collar bone is crushed. If your collar bone is crushed, the results are identical to 53–60, except you suffer 4 Damage Points to Endurance.

75–80 A massive chest wound accompanied by broken ribs and crushed tissues. Very ugly, this. Take 5 Damage Points immediately from Endurance. Reduce your MD and AG by 3 each until this wound heals (which should take about 4 months). Increase your chance of infection by 10.

4.24 Bronze Scale Byrnie

This bronze scale byrnie is a flexible coat of small, oblate bronze scales that weighs 18 lbs. It can be worn over the top of other linen, leather, scale mail or chainmail armour, but not exotic ones like dragonskin or similar. If the wearer takes damage from a Fatigue blow that ends in 3, 4, 5, 6, 7 or 8, they increase the Prot value of their armour by 3, potentially avoiding some or all of it.

4.25 Brass Trumpet

This brass horn weighs 2 lbs 5 oz and is 4 1/2 feet long. One like this might be bought for 2tsg, 12 gs, 4 sp.

4.26 Black Medallion of the Tail Eating Worm

This circular medallion is made from a heavy white metal, with the figure of a tail-eating worm carved into its rim. The centre of the disc is enamelled black, with five spiraling silver lines circling into the centre. It has a 36 inch long platinum chain made of four strands of intertwined oval links. It weighs 19 oz.

4.27 Furze the Mantikiten

4.27.1 Currently

Description Furze is a young creature very like a mantichora but the size and colouring of a sand cat with the russet-coloured wings of a flying fox, the head of a small boy and a scorpion's tail. He is a Fantastical Avian, with a body that is 18 inches long, with the segmented tail of a scorpion that is 1 foot long, the stinger adding another 8 inches. It is usually rolled up, although it can be extended straight up or flicked from side to side to indicate emotional state. Extended, his wings span 2 feet 5 inches that fold down into a rust coloured, form fitting 'cape' from shoulder to haunches. He has long, curly hair the colour of pale honey that hang in ringlets to his shoulders. His facial features are the colour of fine porcelain with a faint rose wash across his cheeks. His eyes are amber and his features are as soft and rounded as a child. He weighs 2 lbs 3 oz.

Comments He has the developmental age of a three year old child, although physically, he is an adolescent (as a cat). He has no memory of being cared for and has been on his own for about six months. He is naturally curious, lonely and bored well beyond tears. Which could mean ... trouble.

He has been eating the smaller critters in the archive and has formed the belief that if he eats enough of the centipedes he will be able to deliver venom with his sting. He cannot speak a language but this might be because he is too young. He has no fear of humans or similar species, but distrusts undead, if he recognises them.

Abilities Although he cannot fly, he is capable of a 'wing assisted' horizontal leap of 15 feet, a vertical leap of 10 feet and fall 40 feet without harm. His Stealth is 4 × AG, and can advance this Adventuring Skill if he has the Experience to pay for it.

Furze can deliver a Sting and 2 Claw attacks in Melee. In Close, he can make a Sting attack and 4 Claw attacks.

He has 6 spines which he can fire from his tail 1 at a time. He has a 70% chance of regrowing a spine at dawn, 2 if he rolls 30 or less.

4.27.2 A year later

Description Furze' body is now the size of a clouded leopard at 2 feet 11 inches long, with the tail and stinger adding 2 foot 6 inches to his length. His wings are dark auburn in colour, their span is 4 ft 9 in that fold down into form fitting 'cape' from shoulder to haunches. He weighs 21 lbs. Faint light brown rosettes have filled in on his body over a base colour of pale grey/fawn. His shoulders are covered with long soft hair, ash blond in colour. His features have matured somewhat, his nose and chin being slightly more pointed and he has a darker, more tanned aspect, now.

Comments He has the mental development of a 12 year old boy but cannot learn a language. He believes he would look particularly fetching in a red fez with gold tassels.

Abilities He can fly but not well and he must spend 1 FT for every hour of flight or part thereof. In particular, he cannot stay airborne at speeds of 6 TMR or less, so cannot deliver a flying attack, evade or use a Pass Action in flight, regardless of his Rank with the Adventuring Skill.

Furze can deliver a Sting and 2 Claw attacks in Melee. In Close, he can make a Sting attack and 4 Claw attacks.

If the Sting does effective damage, envenomation occurs. The venom does no damage, but inflicts pain, adding 1 to the result of a Strike Check or Cast Check. This is cumulative and lasts until a scorpion antivenin is applied or 4 hours have passed. His venom sacs hold 6 doses, and he recovers 1 each dawn so long as he is well-fed.

He has 8 spines and he can fire 2 at a time at the same target or another he can see in front of him. He has a 70% chance of regrowing 2 spines at dawn, 3 if he rolls 30 or less.

4.27.3 Maturity

Description At three, Furze has achieved his adult growth, although his PS, MA, EN and FT will increase by one on each of his next five birthdays as his skeleton, musculature, metabolism and mind develop to full adulthood. His body is about the size of a snow leopard's at 3 ft 6 in long, the tail and stinger being a further 3 ft 2 in. His rosettes are the colour of cinnamon and the base colour is pale gold. His wings are deep crimson and span 9 ft 4 in that fold down into form fitting 'cape' from shoulder to haunches, weighing 40 lbs. His shoulders are covered in a tawny mane which will become larger over the next five years until it is the same as a lion's. His nose is now more aquiline and his lower jaw has filled out with his chin being more pronounced and broader. His skin tone is generally tanned, dark olive.

Comments If he does not yet have a red fez with gold tassels, there will be Hell to pay.

Abilities Furze may be an adroit flyer depending on his Flying Skill. He can sustain flight at half his TMR and, if he pays 1 FT each Pulse, he can fly slower than that or even hover by flapping strenuously. He may use Stealth while flying except when beating his wings. His maximum level flight speed is 50 mph. In a stoop, he can achieve a speed of 120 mph. If he pulls out into level flight, he can gradually slow down to 15 mph or slower over 12 Pulses and cover 3,280 feet (1 kilometre). He may take a Pass Action to slow down over a Pulse, requiring a Flight Check with a penalty of his speed in mph and at full dive speed, will cover 150 feet.

Furze can deliver a Sting and 2 Claw attacks in Melee. In Close, he can make a Sting attack and 4 Claw attacks.

He can deliver a Sting attack as a function of a Dive, which will increase his Strike Chance by 20.

If the Sting does effective damage, envenomation occurs. The venom does no damage, but inflicts pain, adding 1 to the result of a Strike Check or Cast Check. This is cumulative and lasts until a scorpion antivenin is applied or 4 hours have passed. His venom sacs hold 12 doses, and he recovers 2 each dawn, so long as he is well-fed.

He has 12 spines and can fire 3 at a time at the same target or up to 2 others that he can see that are in front of him. He has a 70% chance of regrowing 2 spines at dawn, 4 if he rolls 30 or less.

His PS, MA & EN increase by 1 each year for the next five years, when he will have achieved his full adult growth.

If properly motivated, he may become a loyal follower and may assign to whoever he follows a parental role. That will change in the next stage of his development, where he is larger, can fly albeit with little grace, is more of a physical threat and is more intelligent. He is also more demanding, stroprier, interested in things that improve his appearance and personal sense of style. Constant praise is also acceptable.

Upon maturity, he will want at least a half share in treasure, including gear. Unless he develops some, he has no Language Skills but he can definitely count and he is intelligent. At this point, he is no longer a follower, but sees himself more as a companion and business partner. He will take every opportunity to learn the Merchant Skill, whereupon his first Speciality will be Mercenary Contracts.

Furze is mortal, even though he is a Fantastical Beast, and has a lifespan of 70 years. If he dies before his allotted span, he can be Resurrected if someone with that ability can be found.

He earns 20% of his companion's Experience but only one training track, the rest of his time spent on things vital to manticore 'development'. At a rate of 1 per adventure or season, whichever is least, any of his Primary Characteristics except AG can be advanced 5 more points additional to any he acquires as a result of ageing or the like. He may advance his PC to a maximum of 23 and there is no upper limit to which his FT value may improve.

If properly motivated, he may become a loyal follower and may assign to whoever he follows a parental role. That will change in the next stage of his development, where he is larger, can fly albeit with little grace, is more of a physical threat and is more intelligent. He is also more demanding, stroprier, interested in things that improve his appearance and personal sense of style. Constant praise is also acceptable.

4.28 Blackware Amphora

Whoever drinks from this amphora will be wracked with convulsions, losing 1 point of EN a minute for five minutes. After drinking from the amphora, the mark of belladonna flower can be found on the inside. If they do not die, they acquire this permanent ability, which will endure past death.

4.28.1 The Form of Jafar's Viper

The Adept and 30lbs of their carried equipment transfigure themselves into a venomous snake by taking a Magical Pass Action. Magic that is still in effect apply in viper form, but the benefits of the bearer's gear do not, unless specified otherwise. As a viper, the Adept cannot speak nor cast Spells or Rituals. They can use Talents that don't require gestures or vocalisations (e.g. Not Ask the Dead, etc.). They can make use of these Skills:

- Navigator (except Map Creating, Piloting, Maintaining the Speed of a ship or Recognising Nonmagical Danger at sea)
- Ranger (except Brew Tisanes, First Aid or Preparing Food). They have an environmental specialisation in deserts and improve their Stealth there by a further 10 points.
- Assassin (except Using Envenomed Weapons, Increased Grievous Injury, Torture, Buy Poisons etc. at cost, Inflict Increased Damage from the Rear, Increased Knockout Chance)
- Spy (except Bribery, Disguise, Forgery, Imitation, Pick Locks or Sleight of Hand)
- Thief (except Pick Locks/Open Safes, Remove Traps, or Pick Pocket)

Descriptions Jafar's Vipers are 2 feet long and weigh 10 oz. They have amber and cream coloured scales in the shape of diamonds along their lengths, blunt heads and fangs half an inch in length.

Comments The viper

- adds their serpentine AG to their Initiative roll.
- can 'sidewind' at a short term movement rate of 300 yards per minute or 6 TMR.
- may cover 15 feet in a Serpent Strike, additional to any other movement it is entitled and this will increase their Strike Chance by 20. Once used, this ability cools down for 3 Pulses
- holds a store of 9 doses of venom lethal to an adult human, which will regenerate at a rate of 2 per day. In this form, the Adept may release venom to make an antivenin against the poison of vipers

- adds 10 to their Stealth and can slip through a crack no less than half an inch by 1 inch.
- has a standard movement rate of 175 yards per minute and can climb over natural obstacles at 50 yards per minute

Weapons: Bite: BC 40%, [D10!], Melee or Close, A Class Damage, Adept's Rank in Dagger.

The fangs are particularly sharp and ignore the first 3 points of Protection before damage is rolled. If effective damage is taken, it is a bleeder inflicting 1 DP per Pulse and envenomation occurs.

The immediate effect of the venom is to increase damage by 1 for each bleeder. If the victim survives this, then after an hour, there is a 30% chance that the victim will be unable to urinate.

If they are able, then their urine will be copious and as red as port wine. In either case, their EN value is reduced by half, rounding down, but once urine is passed, they may begin to recover.

If they cannot urinate, their EN value is reduced by half at dawn, until they receive a viper antivenin or are treated by a Healer who is at least Rank 7 or their EN value is exhausted. By the third morning, the pain is sufficient to make death a preferred state. While envenomed, they may not be Healed of DP, although FT may be Transferred to them.

Defences Jafar's Vipers typically assume a 'stance' by turning intertwining loops into a confusing lemnis, weaving their heads back and forth. This adds 10 to the result of any opponent's Strike Check, making it more difficult, and can be combined with an Evasion.

Whenever they return to their original form the Adept halves their current and maximum FT value (rounding up). This is cumulative, their maximum FT resetting to the original value at dawn, although their current FT value is unchanged until it is restored by rest or medication.

Effects The Adept must spend three hours (~10 minutes per Rank, min. 10) communing with the Underworld and focussing their spiritual resources upon the bones of at least one entity to prepare a Pentagram of Interment. If they have the Spectral Warrior spell, they may bind one to the pentagram for the duration of the Ritual. The warrior will automatically attack any entity within the pentagram who attacks the Adept.

The Adept may use the Spectral Warrior at a Pentagram of Interment to open a spectral pathway through the Valley of Death to an active Pentagram of Interment of their creation, which must be within Rank × Rank × 10 miles. The portal allows them to transport themselves (+1 entity per 2 Ranks of the spell). From the perspective of the travellers, they will be travelling at a walking pace through the mist-shrouded Valley of Death, but in reality, they will travel at a rate of Rank miles per minute for Conc. Max: 10 minutes × Rank of the spell, min. 10.

While the Ritual is less than Rank 10, this will dissipate the spectral path and the Warrior. After Rank 10, it will dissipate the spectral path and exhaust the Warrior, who will recover by midnight after the the travel completes. At Rank 20, it dissipates the path, but does not exhaust the Warrior.

The Ritual always fails if either the departure point or the destination is death free for whatever reason. The Adept may make the Pentagram permanent by sacrificing a point of PC to it. If there is no Spectral Warrior bound to it, however, no passage through the Valley of Death is possible until one is so bound.

4.30 Draught of Dispelling Transfiguration

This colourful stoneware amphora is 6 inches tall and weighs 11 oz. The lid is sealed with pine sap resin and holds up to 5 fluid oz. Whoever drinks it has their nature changed so that they are able to return to their original form (requiring a Pass Action) if they are transformed into a frog by any means. This ability is permanent and, since it has changed their nature, persists beyond death. If they are DAed and the name of the magic they are under the effect of is asked for, the answer will always be 'Dispelling Transfiguration', regardless of any other magic.

Once the concoction has been drunk, the mark of a pair of entwined thorny vines is revealed inside the amphora.

4.31 The Egg in Jet

Pskaithe is an intelligent, fell beast from a culture lost in the mists of time. He can recall a realm where enormous creatures stalked the land and the air was heavy with the perfume of lost eons. He claims to have been a simple merchant of the House of Psabeq in the Dynasty of Abep'is-Tau, but he knows that an enemy cursed him so that his ageing was reversed which him forced back into his egg. He mutters direly about the vizier of Djedd Uwengath but won't be drawn further.

His egg was struck by pilot waves propagating from an invading reality, the wave function collapse interacting with his curse, which separated his body from his soul. He would have passed on, but bound to his egg, he eventually found himself in the northern region of the Land of Nod.

He has spent time observing this new world as his senses expanded from his new locus. In time, he made the acquaintance of Shemyaza of the Grigorii. He gives the impression that a great deal of time passed before trust was established, but when it was, Shemyaza and others of his order worked with Pskaithe to better understand what he described. Unfortunately, his knowledge of things that happened after this has been compromised and he no longer trusts his memories.

His egg, once mired in tar, has fossilised into jet, was torn from a vein in what is, now, the Black Sands desert.

When the jet is lit, fumes from aeons past issue forth. If this smoke is targetted with a spell of Animating Bodily Parts, then Pskaithe will form around the Adept as a construct of smoke. This will last for 20 minutes (+20 minutes per Rank), becoming ordinary smoke once the spell ends.

Physical Form Pskaithe's head is 3 feet long with a 1.5-foot beak, his neck is 5 foot long and serpentine, his body is 7 feet, with an 8 foot long tail. His wingspan is 25 feet.

Insubstantiality He is insubstantial except to those things capable of reaching 60 million years into the past. Aside from providing flight to the Adept, he is largely transparent to the temporal world.

Flight & Launch Unless facing into a headwind or launching from a height of at least 20 feet, he must achieve a land speed of 12 TMR to take to the air.

Aerial Movement Once airborne, his TMR is 8 (increasing to 9 at Rank 10, and 10 at Rank 20). Level flight speed is 30 mph (+1 mph per Rank), reaching 120 mph in a stoop. He can fly as slow as 3 TMR, but this requires strenuous flapping and costs 1 FT per Pulse.

Deceleration If he pulls out of a 120 mph stoop into level flight, he can coast to 15 mph or slower over 12 minutes, covering 9 miles. Alternatively, he may take a Pass Action to air-brake over a single Pulse. This requires a Flight Check with a penalty equal to his current speed in mph and covers 270 feet if attempted at 120 mph.

Encumbrance & Cargo Pskaithe can carry the Adept and an additional 30 lbs (+1 lb per Rank) without difficulty. He can also carry heavier amounts, to a maximum of 50 lbs (+ 5 lbs per Rank), each 50 lbs or part thereof costing the Adept 2 additional FT per hour of flight. Aerobatic manoeuvres while bearing cargo doubles the result of the Flight check, making it more difficult.

The fossilised egg is a legal target for the Ritual of Life Prolonging, drawing jet to cover it which, upon completion, reseals the vessel.

4.32 Horned Jackal Ring

The band of this ring is carved out of sardonyx, the bezel is formed out of gold and weighs 3 oz. It is in the shape of a jackal's head with a horn the shape and size of a stiletto emerging from its forehead. The mark of a pair of entwined thorny vines can be found on the reverse side of the bezel. After it has been in the bearer's possession for the passing of a full moon, it's magic becomes available to them.

It must be worn on the ring finger of the left hand for its magic to be effective. When it is, the bearer and 30 lbs of their gear may transform into a horned jackal with fur the colour of sand in sunlight. This requires 1 FT, a Magical Pass Action and a Free Act and to utter a sharp bark. Magic in effect still applies, but the benefits of the bearer's equipment do not, unless specified otherwise.

They may stay in this form so long as they keep spending 1 FT each hour or part thereof. As a jackal, the bearer cannot speak nor cast Spells or Rituals. They can use Talents that don't require gestures or vocalisations (e.g. Not Ask the Dead). Transfigured, they can make use of these Skills:

- Navigator (except Map Creating, Piloting, Maintaining the Speed of a ship or Recognising Nonmagical Danger at sea)
- Ranger (except Brew Tisanes, First Aid or Preparing Food). Even if no other trace is present, may track by scent alone without penalty, even across snow. They have an environmental specialisation in or around ruins which is additional to any other that the bearer might have, and improve their Stealth in the desert by 10.
- Assassin (except Using Envenomed Weapons, Increased Grievous Injury, Torture, Buy Poisons etc. at cost, Inflict Increased Damage from the Rear, Increased Knockout Chance)

- Spy (except Bribery, Disguise, Forgery, Imitation, Pick Locks or Sleight of Hand) Thief (except Pick Locks/Open Safes, Remove Traps, Pick Pocket, Climb)

Horned jackals can maintain a ground-eating pace of 10 mph for hours at a time. Once a day, resetting at dawn, they can sprint 24 hexes in a Pulse without losing the benefit of their Magic Resistance or Defence.

The jackal may Charge up to their full TMR and deliver a Horn attack, increasing their Strike Chance by 20 and their damage to [D10! + D5! + 2].

The horn of the jackal is much sought after. A Wiccan, Shaper or Talismonger can make an amulet from it that will provide a 20 point bonus with respect to the bearer's court cases and their chance to Resist the Evil Eye.

4.33 Antediluvian Tortoise

This shell and skeleton are the remains of a massive testudine 10 feet long, 7 1/2 feet wide and 6 feet high. Its upper carapace is comprised of pentagonal scutes. In life, it would have filled a volume of 75 cubic feet and weighed 4,400 lbs occupying three hexes on the combat grid. However, since only its skeleton and shell remain, it occupies 12 cubic feet and weighs 1,235 lbs, although it still occupies three hexes.

The remains have been treated with experimental unguents and elixirs which carry the mark of a pair of entwined thorny vines, which has preserved and improved their integrity. As a consequence, the remains do not turn to dust when the Animating magic ends. Additionally, the shell now reduces physical and magical damage, and the oils of the unguent have brought out the deep greens, reddish-browns and translucently gold-flecked mottling of the carapace. Consequently, the testudine's PB is insufficient to force a Fright check. Its movement rate and TMR have also increased as a function of its enhanced power to weight ratio.

It is resistant to A & B Class damage, halving it before Damage Reduction and Protection (if any) is applied. In addition, it is immune to A Class Specific Grievous injuries and many B Class ones. It has the usual traits for lesser undead and recovers 3 EN every 2 days that it rests (defined as a day in which it loses no more than half its FT). Undead do not sleep, eat or drink so only recover FT by resting, which, in this case, restores 1 1/2 points an hour.

It cannot be Healed by Skill or Spell nor consume Healing Potions or the like. An Adept who can Cast the Warping spell can repair Specific Grievous injuries if their Skill in Beastmastery includes turtles & tortoises and is equal to the Rank that a Healer would need to make the necessary repairs. As it happens, skeletal undead rarely suffer damage to muscles, nerves or vital organs. Amputations, however, can be bothersome. Warping cannot repair non-specific damage to EN or FT.

The internal dimensions are 6'8" long x 4'2" wide x 4'6" high.

4.34 Catspaw and Shrike

These weapons are paired, and if unbound, have no discernible magical properties unless Divined. Upon binding them, a potential wielder must stab themselves with both in the same Pulse. If this kills them, then the binding fails.

Whereas Catspaw is a main gauche, has a reverse curve and inflicts B Class injuries (except for decapitations), Shrike is a stiletto-like dagger that inflicts A Class wounds. Both are finesse weapons, damage is not modified by PS, instead, every 5 points of Manual Dexterity in excess of the minimum needed to wield them adds +1 to their damage.

The base Strike Chance of Catspaw is 45%, inflicts 1 rollup D10 + 1 damage and weighs 1 lb. The base Strike Chance of Shrike is 40%, inflicts 1 rollup D10 damage, has a range of 12 hexes and weighs 10 oz.

Each weapon can take the form of the Dark Aspected Living Animals listed below. While each are wielded as weapons, the MD of the form is added to the MD of the hand it is wielded in.

In the form of animals, their aura strength is "Living Animal", their GTN will be as a normal beast of their kind and the response to any question about their magical properties will be "no answer", which will be the same response to a question about their gender. They can be affected by magic that targets Living Animals, but not by magic that specifically targets sentients (like Control Person), even though they are. They can be directed when in animal form but use their individual MD, only, and no penalties are applied for want of PS. If their wielder can communicate with them, they may give new instructions while they are within range, requiring either a Free Act or a Pass Action.

4.34.1 Catspaw

Description This main gauche can take the form of a small, dark, tortoiseshell housecat with lambent green eyes weighing 5 lbs when it is dropped to the ground and its name spoken.

Abilities Catspaw's Stealth is 4 x AG + 6 x the wielder's Rank with main gauche.

If it

- shares the same hex as the person that it is bound to, it provides its usual bonus to melee Defence, but which immediately fails if any other shield or main gauche is used.
- enters the hex of a bipedal opponent of size 9 or less, which it can do without provoking an attempt to keep it out of Close, then it can force the opponent to make a 3 x AG roll or fall prone as it runs between their legs.
- succeeds in a rear attack, it inflicts 2 x the wielder's Rank in Assassin in addition to its other damage.

Comments It has a movement rate of 450 yards per minute while running, and can climb natural terrain and obstacles at 250 yards per minute.

4.34.2 Shrike

Description This dagger can take the form of a bird when it is thrown into the air while speaking its name. Shrike has dove grey plumage, with black feathers on its leading edges and tail. It has a black mask, is 9 1/2 inches long, a wingspan of 13 inches and weighs 2 1/2 oz.

Abilities Shrike's normal pattern of flight is to hug terrain and then rise to attack.

It can:

- move its full TMR for a Pulse while under cover of Stealth, the chance being 3 x AG + 5 x the wielder's Rank in dagger. Once used, the technique cools down for 3 Pulses.

- deliver a flying Charge, moving up to its full TMR, increasing its Strike Chance by 20 and doubling damage if it hits.

It has 3 times the visual acuity of a human, can see into the ultra violet, and its black mask adds 10 to its chance to resist glare or being dazzled. It improves its chance of spotting movement by +1 to the PC multiple, so at 500 feet, has a 3 x PC check to identify, say, a postage stamp or grape, or 4 x PC check for a bumblebee in flight or a jumping grasshopper.

Comments It has a movement rate of 600 yards per minute while flying below 500 feet. Above this, it flies at up to 45 mph with a flight ceiling of 16,000 feet.

Neither are legal targets for weapon spells.

4.35 Medicine Bag

This small greenish bag is made from leather with 5 inch long leather tassels of the same colour. It has a long strap allowing it to be worn over the shoulder. The flap unfolds to an opening 9 inches by 3 inches and is 8 inches deep. A Shaman may use it to hold fetish objects, for example, totem figures, carved animals, feathers, skin, skulls, bones, fangs or claws of creatures smaller than a dog, red ochre, black sand, crystals, pebbles, leaves, roots, seeds, dried flowers, grass but particularly psychoactive substances and tobacco. These are usually found while foraging (as the Ranger Skill) but they might find such things anywhere. If the DM has decided there is one nearby, the Shaman's chance is $PC \times 2\%$ ($+ 5 \times Rank$) to spot it. No more than one fetish can be found each day. Although they are not magical, they can be used to:

- pay part of the FT cost of a spell, making it cost 1 less FT to a minimum of 1.
- pay for a service from one of their attending spirits.

The medicine bag holds a single fetish and requires the Shaman have an unmodified MA of 16 or higher. To increase its capacity, they must sacrifice 1,000 Experience divided by (their unmodified MA - 15) to it, doubling each time.

4.36 Energy Crystal × 3

This object is a crystal orb 2 inches across and weighs 6 1/2 oz. Astral energy has been stored in the crystal so that when it takes magical damage, it will detonate for 2 rollup D10 spell damage over a diameter of 25 feet. Each extra orb adds 2 more rollup D10 but not the diameter.

Once the cheese has been eaten for three consecutive days, then for every day that it continues to be eaten improves EN by +5 effective only for determining Natural Healing and recovering from infection.

5.6 Wolf Pelt Armour

This wolf pelt can be made into hard leather armour which has a penalty of 1 AG, a weight factor of 2 and provides 9 points of Damage Reduction versus A, B or C Class damage, unless the amount ends in 0 or 5, in which case, none of it is avoided.

5.7 Wolf's Head Cloak

This wolf pelt can be made into a hooded leather cloak that weighs 3 lbs.

The wearer loses 1 less point of FT loss per hour as a consequence of cold weather.

It provides 1 point of Damage Reduction versus A, B or C Class damage if the amount generated does not end in 0 or 5. This will stack with other forms of Protection and Damage Reduction which are appropriate.

The cloak improves the wearer's Stealth calculation arising from the Ranger skill by 2 per Rank when in woods, forests or plains.

5.8 Experimental Healing Potion × 40

These ceramic phials are the colour of blood and the length of the index finger of a boy of 12, weighing 5 oz. Once one has been taken, 1 point of EN damage is healed, and if a Break 100 roll adding 2 × the imbiber's EN, then the effects are sustained for the next Pulse. This continues until the Break 100 roll is failed or the imbiber's EN is fully restored. This counts as Natural Healing, and prevents the use of the Healer ability to Repair injuries, requiring the Regeneration ability instead.

5.9 Cloudfruit × 50

This melon-like fruit is about the size of a man's head but only weighs 7oz. It satiates as if it were a filling meal but has no caloric value at all, so will not recover FT.

An unopened cloudfruit lasts for a year.

6 Items - Ishamael

6.1 Centipede Venom × 9

This venom may be used to make either:

- a blade venom that will inflict 2D5 poison damage once if effective damage is inflicted, which will require the arts of a Rank 5 or higher Alchemist who knows how to distill poison.
- a topical analgesic which will also reduce inflammation and swelling when made into an embrocation, which will require the arts of a Rank 5 or higher Alchemist who knows how to make medicines.

6.2 Ghul Hearts × 2

- 14 Darkness (9 used)
- 14 Death (5 used)

6.3 Pint of Ghul's Blood × 12

6.3.1 Blood Temper

One of these pints may be used to make a blood temper which permanently increases the sharpness of a B Class weapon by three. This does not increase the weapon's damage, instead, reducing the value of target's Protection by three.

The temper requires a pint of the blood and the arts of an Alchemist who can make potions. They must spend 2,650 Experience and three weeks to learn how to make the temper and it will cost 10× the cost of the weapon. The temper cannot be applied to a weapon that has already been forged.

6.3.2 Resistance to Cut & Thrust Potion

Once a pint of this blood is mixed with hemlock, the alchemical cure for hemlock poisoning and then distilled to 4oz which will fit into a crystal phial the size of a boy of twelve's index finger, then this potion will be created.

Whoever takes it will be resistant to A & B Class damage for five minutes so that they only take half (round down). This applies after Protection, Endurance Armour or the appropriate Damage Reduction.

6.4 The Windswept Cloak

This Ulster Cloak reaches to the knee, has a high collar and an overmantle that covers the shoulders down to the middle of the back. It is lined with the feathers of rooks, and although it looks like a heavy leather cloak, it weighs only 11 oz.

It is Air Aspected, and allows the wearer to reduce their flying speed to as little as 3 Hexes per Pulse before stalling and beginning to fall, if they are flying by means of wings.

If the wearer is also Aspected for Air, then they may advance the Aerial Affinity Talent. If the cloak is subsequently lost, no further advancement is possible but they keep the Ranks they have learnt.

6.5 Chaplet of the Underworld

This set of beads holds nodes for 6 crimson carbuncles, each the shape and size of a pomegranate seed, strung on a green gold chain, separated by 7 beads of red jasper (so a total of 42).

Three of the carbuncles have been woken

6.5.1 The Boon of Hades

Range 6 hexes

Target Willing sentient entity

Duration Cenconetration max 1 minute

This carbuncle requires a Free Act and can be discharged on up to three targets within range. There are 3 Gifts and a target may only benefit from one.

- The Gift of the Dog Skin

The target may move and benefit from the Blending spell, so long as they do not exceed their TMR. If they successfully attack, this boon ends.

- The Gift of Mortality

A willing target is considered a mortal and their life may be ended. If they are already mortal, then, without actually dying, they are considered to have died. This can affect those who are Death or Life Aspected.

- The Gift of the Grave

The target is inured to the excesses of emotion and cannot be feared or Charmed while duration persists.

This carbuncle resets at Midnight.

6.5.2 Hecate's Talon

Target Self

Duration Concentration max 1 minute

This carbuncle requires the use of a Free Act. While duration persists, the next time the Adept succeeds in a Melee or Close Strike Check, they add 2 rolled D10 soul damage to any other damage they inflict and reduce their target's Magic Resistance by 20.

This carbuncle resets at Midnight on Saturday

6.5.3 Hound of the Underworld

Range Sight

Target Entity

Duration Concentration max 1 minute

This carbuncle requires the use of a Magical Fire Action, and summons a Spectral Three-Headed Hound which will hunt down and slay one target, who must be within sight when the boon is released. The hound is completely insubstantial and invisible except to its intended victim. It may be seen by others with Witchsight.

The hound will continue with its mission until concentration is broken, its intended victim dies, it is dissipated or duration expires. The hound can unerringly locate its intended victim and will always move towards them at its full movement rate, and engage them in melee combat.

The hound has a single, combined, Endurance and Fatigue Characteristic with a value of 50. It automatically hits every Pulse for $[D - 4] + 18$ damage. Its Initiative is 66. The hound has no defence or armour value. It may not be Stunned, its movement rate is 55 yards per Pulse, and its TMR is 13. The hound may move in any direction without restriction, including through the air, walls, water, etc.

This carbuncle resets at Midnight on Saturday

The metal of the chaplet is toxic, so care must be used in handling it. Unless the wearer has the Assassin ability to handle poisons without risking harm, they must make a $3 \times MD$ check each time they use a carbuncle, failure indicating that they have become infected.

6.6 The Lamp of Hades

This lamp is made from bronze and is small enough to fit in the palm of a maiden, weighing but 8 oz. Once a day, it may be filled with 1 oz of Oil of Narcissus (requiring four Pass Actions) and lit (requiring a Pass Action and 5 FT), whereupon it will shed a faint light for 4 hours that is unseeable except to the bearer.

While the Lamp is alight, the bearer's Light spell becomes The Gloom of Asphodels, their Wall of Darkness becomes Underworld Threshold, Shadowform becomes Cap of Hades and Web of Darkness becomes Web of Fate.

If it is not carried in the hand, the lamp may be attached to the bearer's foot by an ankle strap (requiring two Pass Actions) but in any Pulse they exceed their TMR, must succeed on a $3 \times AG$ roll, otherwise the oil will be spilt, extinguishing its light and ending its effects.

Oil of Narcissus may be processed by an Alchemist over three days and requires 1 truesilver guineas worth of reagents to produce an ounce. An Alchemist who can make Poisons must spend 2,650 Experience and three weeks to learn how to make this oil.

6.6.1 The Gloom of Asphodels

Range 15 feet + 15 / Rank

Duration 10 seconds + 5 seconds for every 5 Ranks

Resist None

Target Surface

Effects Creates a hemisphere of gloom in which shades of the restless dead wander hopelessly among asphodels. It is 15' wide and must be anchored to a surface. The diameter increases by a further 10' at Rank 10 and at Rank 20.

Within the volume, any entity whose aura strength is less than long living sentient halves their Regeneration or the Healing they receive to a minimum of 1. In addition, any target within the volume has their Defence versus thrown or missile attacks improved by the Rank of the Gloom.

6.6.2 Underworld Threshold

Range 15 feet + 15 / Rank

Duration 1 minute + 1 minute for every 5 Ranks

Base Chance 15%

Resist Passive

Target Surface

Effects Creates a 10' high, 5' wide volume that is anchored to a surface and which is adjacent to the Underworld. The diameter increases by 10' at Rank 10 and Rank 20. In this volume, undead or undying entities lose that property and they or any mortal entities that are dark-aspected must passively Resist or suffer [D-5] + 1 / soul damage per Rank each time they enter it (not per pulse).

Any entity that suffers soul damage from this spell must roll on the Fright Table.

6.6.3 Web of Fate

Range 30 feet + 15 / Rank

Duration Concentration (Maximum of 15 minute + 15 / Rank)

Experience Multiple 250

Base Chance 25%

Resist Passive

Storage Investment, Ward, Magical Trap

Target Area

Effects A five foot wide web of the Graae is projected from the Adept's finger tips to a target hex, object or entity. Any entity or object in the area will be ensnared by the web. The web may only ensnare six sizes of entities per Rank, or one man-sized object per Rank, stopping at the hex where this limit is reached (or at maximum range).

Entities ensnared in the web suffer 1 drain (+1 per 3 or fraction Ranks) (halved if they successfully resist) each Pulse. PS is drained first, then FT, then EN. This is applied at the moment of contact with the web, and at the beginning of each Pulse, thereafter.

Necrogeny protects against this drain, Damage Reduction may, but Protection and Spell Armour do not. Constructs, undead, objects and creatures of mana may be ensnared by the web but are never drained by it. Undead and creatures of mana are rendered mortal while they are within the precincts of the web, even if they Resist it, and in any case, their Magic Resistance is reduced by the Rank of the web.

Any ensnared entity must roll 1 × Physical Strength (2 × if they successfully Resisted) in order to move themselves to an adjacent hex (which may be free of the web), or to perform an action within the web. A similar check is required for any entity attempting to remove an object from the web. If an entity receives aid in removing themselves from the web, the PS of the aiding character may be combined with their own. Rank or more points damage from a single blow from a B-class weapon will destroy the entire web. Treat the web's defence as being equal to its Rank.

6.6.4 Cap of Hades

Range Self

Duration 30 minutes + 30 / Rank

Base Chance 15%

Resist None

Target Self

Effects Darkness covers the Adept's head, then spreading down their body over two Pulses, becoming increasingly ethereal with Rank. Defence versus physical Melee or Ranged attacks increases by 2 (+ 2 / Rank). In Close combat only 1 (+ 1 / Rank) Defence is gained. However, if they are struck by weapon that is not magical or silvered, 1 point per three full Ranks is subtracted from the damage. In addition, the Adept gains a 1 (+ 1 / Rank) bonus to their Stealth.

6.7 Scorpion Venom × 35

6.7.1 Scorpion Blade Venom

This venom can be processed by an Alchemist who can make poison into a Blade Venom which may be anointed on an A or B Class weapon. If effective damage is taken, the venom inflicts 1 rollup D5 damage per Pulse until a scorpion antivenin is taken.

6.7.2 Scorpion Antivenin

A dose of this scorpion venom can be rendered into a scorpion antivenin by the arts of an Alchemist who can make potions, using reagents that cost 3 truesilver guineas. It will cure any venom delivered by a scorpion or scorpion blade venom.

6.8 Tardy Potion of Healing

This orange-brown ceramic phial weighs 4oz. If it is worn on a belt, bandolier, chest strap or the like, then it may be taken as a Free Act or Pass Action. If it is carried elsewhere, but not in, say, a pack, it will require a Pass Action.

This potion does not begin the healing process until the Pulse after it is taken, on the drinker's initiative. Except for damage that is a consequence of Specific Grievous injuries or drain, all EN losses are restored, as well as 2 rollup D10 FT lost to damage.

6.9 Stealth Potion

This charcoal grey ceramic phial weighs 4oz.

When it is taken, it improves Stealth by 20 for four hours.

6.10 Lapis Hamsa

This amulet is made from brass wire in the likeness of a hand, decorated with polished chips of lapis lazuli, weighing 2 oz. It must be pinned to the right forearm just above the wrist. It is a spell rack.

The first time the wearer Resists magic, their WP is doubled for the purposes of calculating their Magic Resistance. This ability is restored when the wearer Purifies after dawn.

6.11 Lariat of the Noose

This length of rope has been woven from the hair of hags or similar and appears to writhe like slithering serpents. It is 35 feet long and weighs 4 lbs. It is a 2-handed Entangling weapon, may only be used against human-sized or smaller victims, has a base Strike Chance of 41% and inflicts [D10! + 3] strangulation damage. It may be wielded in Melee or to a range of 6 hexes.

7 Items - Artephius

7.1 Bracelet of Luck

This bracelet is made of seven empty, oblong, bronze plates the size of a Hobbit's smallest finger and twice as wide which are connected by bronze links. It must be worn on the left wrist for its magic to be effective.

The wearer may increase their Cast Chance with spell magic by the value of their Luck stat.

Each setting will hold a rectangular stone, but all must be different and at least semi-precious. When all the settings are filled, it will be a spell rack.

7.2 Enchanted Gems

These gems are legal targets of the Ritual of Enchantment and last until the end of the season. Each Ritual costs 1 oz black myrrh and 1 oz of white sandalwood which will cost 300 sp (sandalwood trees take around three decades to mature and are scarce).

7.3 Tourmaline Teardrop

This 1 cm, teardrop-shaped blue tourmaline, once set in a bezel, Enchanted and worn on the wrist, empowers the wearer's Ventriloquism spell. Once a day, it allows them to hear something as quiet as a whisper at the target of the Ventriloquism spell once a day, while within range and while duration persists. This property resets at dawn.

7.4 Purple Corundum Pentagram

This 1 cm, faceted purple corundum in the shape of a pentagram, once set in a bezel, Enchanted and worn on the wrist, improves the wearer's WP by 1 and their PC by 2. It is expensive with an obvious value of 48 truesilver guineas. If it is concealed, it does nothing.

7.4.1 Jet Triangle

This 1 cm, single piece of jet is carved into a triangle, and, once set in a bezel, Enchanted and worn on the wrist, increases the wearer's Initiative by 8 and allows any Cast or Strike check that ends in an 8 to be treated as ending with a 1 and any damage roll of 1 on a D10 becomes 8 if their opponent is from the Seventh Plane or demonic.

If the wearer is the target of a spell that inflicts fire damage, then the wearer can sacrifice the jet, which will be consumed in a brief flash. After the Resistance check, the consequent fire damage is divided by 5, rounding up, and then applied over the next 5 Pulses.

7.4.2 Oval Pyrites of Iron

This 1 cm, oval shaped piece of Pyrites of Iron looks like gold. Once set in a bezel, Enchanted and worn on the wrist, increases the wearer's Magic Resistance to harmful magic by 10 if it is illusory or has the word Illusion in the name of the magic.

7.4.3 Bloodstone Square

This 1 cm, square of bloodstone, once set in a bezel, Enchanted and worn on the wrist, increases the wearer's Natural Healing by +1 every three days. In addition, the wearer improves their chance to recover from infection by 10.

7.4.5 Eye of the Snow Tiger

This milky white stone is lenticular and about 1 cm wide. It has an amber stripe about 2 mms wide. Once set into a bezel, Enchanted and worn on the wrist, it adds 1 to MR and 2 to Def which stacks with any Amulet of Luck and reduces the count of the number of Amulets of Luck by 1.

7.4.6 Jade Disc

This 1 cm wide, disc-shaped green jade, once set into a bezel, Enchanted and worn on the wrist, increases the wearer's Initiative by 8 and allows any Cast or Strike check vs the undead that ends in an 8 to be treated as ending with a 1 and any damage roll of 1 on a D10 becomes 8.

7.4.7 Jacinth Lozenge

This 1 cm, lozenge-shaped dark blue jacinth, once set in a bezel, Enchanted and worn on the wrist, adds 2 to the wearer's MD. This bonus only applies to the hand on the wrist where the gem is worn. If a shield is used on that hand, the gem reduces the MD penalty, only, but means that the shield is not destroyed unless it is cloven against two Specific Grievous injuries to preserve the wearer's armour.

7.5 Enochian Potion of Healing

This grey-green ceramic phial weighs 4oz. If it is worn on a belt, bandolier, chest strap or the like, then it may be taken as a Free Act or Pass Action. If it is carried elsewhere, but not in, say, a pack, it will require a Pass Action.

When it is taken, it restores 3 rollup D10 + 5 EN damage and 8 FT lost to damage.

7.6 Gold Discs × 2,000

Each disc has glyphs struck into them on both sides and is about the size of a gold shilling.

7.7 Light Scrip

This dark brown leather shoulder bag has brass buckles and weighs 3 lbs. The opening of the scrip is 40 cms by 10 cms, and it holds 1 cubic foot of solid material or fluid material in a solid container. Living creatures (presumably scrip-trained) placed inside it will be able to breathe normally and should survive the experience.

Adding an object to the scrip requires a Pass Action, and so does retrieving one.

It is a legal target for the Telekinesis spell, changing the range to Touch and the Duration to 2 hours (+ 30 minutes per Rank). The Effects of the spell are to reduce the weight of the scrip and its contents by 2 lbs (+ 5 lbs per Rank) to a minimum of 3 lbs.

7.8 Lead Boar

This dark grey leaden figurine of a boar is 7 inches long, weighs 7 lbs and has been formed in a salt mold.

7.10 Brandestick

This slender walking stick is made from aromatic cedar and is 91 cms long. It has a bronze ferrule weighing 1 oz and the entire object weighs 7 oz.

The stick allows for a less fatiguing gait, so that a bearer addresses the next entry above their PS category on the Encumbrance Table. So, a bearer who has a PS of 10 would consult the entry for PS: 13 - 17, not PS: 9 - 12.

In addition, whenever they are required to make an AG check, and so long as they are using the stick at the time, they may add 1/2 (truncating fractions) their MD to the chance.

If the bearer cries out the command word 'Huzzah!', in a flash of green light, the handle curves around their hand forming a knuckleguard and emerald quillons above the hand, while the ferrule transforms into a 24 cm long needle. This stilleto-like blade holds an edge extremely well and is much tougher than steel.

It is Ranked as an estoc, but has a PS requirement of 7, since it is so light. It is a finesse weapon, and inflicts extra damage for every 5 points of MD greater than 17. The weapon does not allow increased damage because of excess PS.

It has a base Strike Chance of 53% and base A Class damage of D10! + 6. For every prime Rank in estoc, the penetration value of the weapon is increased by 1, in addition to any other benefits. Penetration increases on Rank 2, 3, 5 and 7. Damage increases on Rank 4 and 8.

It may receive any weapon spell except Weapon of Flames or Rune Weapon.

8 Items - Slaydar

8.1 Spirit Net of the Necromanteion

This small net-like decoration is about 15 cms long and 4 cms wide. It is made from the dessicated sinews of a priestess of the Black Land and although it only weighs 4 oz, it encumbers as if it weighed 1 lb. It is a spell rack.

It must be worn on the chest, either as a cloak pin for the left lapel or brooch on the upper left torso for it to be effective. The first Healing spell the wearer receives in a day is enhanced to cure 3 damage points in addition to any other granted. This does not apply to healing from potions, draughts or the Arts of Healers and Herbalists.

8.2 Cloak of the Spotted Cat

This cloak is made from the pelt of a snow leopard and weighs 3 lbs. The wearer loses 1 less point of FT loss per hour as a consequence of cold weather. A number of cats will emerge from the folds of the cloak when Called by name, requiring a Pass Action, according to the following schedule:

8.2.1 Min the Snow Leopard

They have a movement rate of 450 yards per minute and 300 yards per minute when they are climbing. As a group, 1 through 9 can enter a target's hex without provoking an attempt to keep them out of Close. The attack does no damage, but forces the target to Break 100 adding $2 \times AG$ to the percentile dice. If they fail, they fall prone, which usually requires a Pass Action to recover from.

PS	MD	AG	MA	EN	FT

Each of the entries can be Called once a week, which requires a Pass Action. This resets just before midnight on Monday. If any of them have died in the Caller's service, they will not be available until the following Monday.

Each may be directed with a Pass Action unless the wearer can speak with animals, in which case it requires either a Free Act or a Pass Action.

The cloak is cursed so that its magic will not work for a wearer who is not size 6.

8.3 Thinga - It's pronounced 'Tina'

Thinga is a revenant who is possessing the metre-long right forelimb of a tyrannosaur. This has three talons, one of which is opposable. When it is the target of a spell of Animating Bodily Parts, Thinga manifests as an indistinct but clearly feminine spectral form attached to this forelimb but can only interact with the material world through that arm.

- PS is 20 (+2 $\times$ the Rank of the spell)
- MD is 10
- MA is 3
- WP is 13
- Combined EN & FT is 10 (+2 $\times$ the Rank of the spell)
- if she takes more damage than this, she will be forced to abandon the forelimb for the Underworld, and may not return until a Rite of Calling is performed on a night of the Dark of the Moon.
- All her other stats are 0.

While manifest:

- Slaydar increases the Cast Chance of his magic by his MD if the range is Touch or if the word Hand appears in its name may see the spirits of the dead, restless or otherwise, but not totem spirits. The range is 50 feet (+10 feet per Rank of the Animating Bodily Parts spell). It does not penetrate visual and physical obscurments and cannot see into or on Consecrated ground

- Thinga will not travel far from Slaydar except under the most dire of circumstances, whereupon she loses her spectral form, her TMR is 2 and her movement rate is 20 yards per minute once a Pulse, if she is adjacent to Slaydar, may deliver an Unarmed Combat attack either in Melee or Close using Slaydar's Rank (but her own stats), in addition to any of Slaydar's Actions. The base damage is one rollup D10, may deliver B or C Class Specific Grievous injuries, but no amputations unless it might remove a hand.
- Thinga is an adolescent female of a race closely related to orcs, if not precisely one. She is working on developing two more fingers, particularly the middle one, which, given her personality, she expects to get the most use out of. Each fingers will raise her MD by 4.
- Thinga has a way of standing to indicate that she is rolling her eyes. This is a racial talent.

8.4 Wind-Runed Amber Egg

This engraved amber gem has the wind rune engraved on it. When it hatches, this will emerge:

8.4.1 Discus of Returning

Henry is a tortoise weighing 1 lb 3 oz and is 7 inches across. His shell is variegated in shades of brown to dull bronze to cream.

Comments Henry is comfortable in water and on land, so has a movement rate of 50 yards per minute running or swimming.

Abilities If he abandons his Magic Resistance and Defence, he can sprint 7 hexes per Pulse. If his head is not withdrawn into his shell, and he is struck, then any damage that ends in a value of 1 or 2 is wholly applied, otherwise it is reduced by 6. If Henry is inside his shell, all damage is reduced by 6.

PS	MD	AG	MA	EN	FT
4	10	9	0	12	15
WP	PC	PB	TMR	NA
13	13	9	2	Shell reduces damage by 6

Weapons Henry cannot Melee. He gets one attack in Close.

Bite BC 30%, [D10 - 1], Close, Rank 0

Henry may be wielded as a boomerang. In such cases, he adds his PS and MD to the wielder's and, in the event of a miss, will direct himself back to the wielder's hand by adroit manoeuvring of his shell, so long as they are within 20 hexes of each other. His base Strike Chance is 57%, inflicts D10 + 4 C Class damage and range is 20 hexes.

8.5 Potion of Resilience

This umber ceramic phial is as long as the middle finger of a boy of twelve and weighs 3 oz. It must be Prepared before it is taken, whereupon it will increase FT value by 8 until the next dusk or dawn.

8.6 Wand of Astral Force

This wand is 19 inches long and made from the black, spiralling horn of an elan. It is chased along its length twice, once in nickel silver and once in bronze, weighing 23 oz.

The wand holds seven charges which may be used in the following ways:

1 charge - Disrupting Shield - requires a Reflex Action

- Disrupts the Astral increasing the wielder's Magic Resistance versus single target spells that inflict damage by 20 for the rest of that Pulse.

1–3 charges - Dart(s) of Astral Force - requires a Magical Fire Action

- Darts of Astral Force inflict 1 rollup D5 magical force damage per dart and as many as 3 darts can be Fired, requiring a charge each. The target must be within 24 hexes, and if they Resist vs Backfire, they take no damage.

At dawn, the wielder rolls percentiles and if the roll is 70 or less, they recover a charge, but if they roll 30 or less, they recover 2.

9 Items - Sin

9.1 Vermilion Fan of the Orient

This pleated fan has black, pointed spines that are 23 cms long, linked to 13 red jade panels and weighs 13 oz. It is a spell rack.

It may be wielded as a buckler, and, as a Reflex Action, it may be used to increase the wielder's Defence by their MD until their next Action in the next Pulse. Once used, it cannot be used for 4 Pulses.

9.2 Boots of the Tiger Beetle

These boots are made from curved, chitinous plates which may be adjusted for size by verdigrised buckles and that encumber as if they weigh 3 lbs. The plates are bronze in colour but the edges are emerald green, so are quite eye-catching. While they provide excellent traction, they are not waterproof.

Because of the traction, the wearer adds +10 to their Climbing check.

If the wearer spends 3 FT on their Initiative, they may increase their full TMR by 2 or half their TMR by 1. If the wearer spends 1 FT on their Initiative, they may increase their full TMR by 1.

Finally, they always have a chance to come to a complete stop however fast they are running. They must, in such cases, Break 100 adding 3 × their AG to the result.

9.3 Beetles of Flesh Devouring × 4

These beetles have dark red carapaces and are as large as a lady's palm, weighing 5 grams. While they are kept in an enclosed space where they cannot run around, they will go into torpor.

There are two male beetles. The females, when fertilised, produce 30 eggs, each of which will become adult over the period of a month and each will require 100 grams of flesh.

Twenty five of these beetles will strip the flesh from the bones of a creature the size of an adult human male within an hour. Their waste is particularly sought after by those who grow roses, camellias, pansies and leafy green vegetables, who will pay 10 sp per pound.

9.4 Falx of the Black Curlew

This sword is made from bronze enamelled in translucent green along the spine of the blade and translucent russet on the forte near the hilt. The mummy of a black curlew has been forged into its length. It has a reverse curve, weighs 6lbs and requires PS 17 & MD 16 to wield. If the wielder is Lunar aspected, they subtract 1 from the result of a Strike Check with this weapon. If it is wielded in the left hand, another 1 is subtracted.

The base Strike Chance is 57% and the weapon inflicts a base D10 + 5 damage, advancing as a Broadsword. The wielder must choose between A or B Class damage, but only B Class Specific Grievous Injuries may be applied. At Rank 6, A or B Class Specific Grievous Injuries may be applied, and therefore they need not choose.

This is a finesse weapon, so bonuses for excess PS are not considered, but every five points in excess of MD 16 increases damage by 1.

Strike Chances improves with Rank according to the following schedule:

Rank	1	2	3	4	5	6
SC%	4	5	6	7	8	9

It accepts weapon spells except Darksword, Weapon of Cold or Weapon of Flames.

Once per phase of the moon, the weapon may be transformed into a Black Curlew by Casting Binding Lesser Undead on it. This creature is entirely ethereal and although it only has a combined EN & FT of 1. If it takes magical damage, then it will be dissipated. However while duration persists, the wielder makes a Concentration Check per Pulse to see and hear through it while it is within range.

9.5 Ring of Warning

This brass earring has a small pendant bell that weighs 1/2 oz. While it is worn, it will ring faintly when they are in danger, so long as they Break 100 on percentile dice, and add their PC to the result.

In addition, when Unengaged Initiative is rolled, they roll twice, choosing the result they prefer.

9.6 Fan Brooch

This dull bronze brooch is in the shape of a fan with its pleats picked out in blue and aquamarine enamel and weighs 4 oz. For its magic to be effective it must be worn as a cloak pin below their primary shoulder.

It is a magical storage device for four fans. The bearer may choose a fan and Prepare it from the brooch as a Free Act. One Pulse after a fan is dropped, it mysteriously returns to the brooch.

9.7 The Black Fan of Forbidding

This pleated fan has black, pointed spines that are 31 cms long, linked to 11 onyx panels and weighs 1 lb 1 oz.

It may be wielded as a small round shield with no penalty to MD, and, as a Reflex Action, it may be used to magically rebuff a creature no larger than 2 hexes if it attempts to Close, unless it successfully Resists versus Backfire.

Once used, this ability cools down for 4 Pulses.

9.8 Moonlace

This pleated fan has spines of black bronze that are 29 cms long, linked to 17 panels made from fine lace of silvergreen silk spun from the cocoons of lunar moths, and weighs 7 oz.

It may be wielded as a buckler, and, as a Free Act, it will suddenly brighten and force any opponents in the wielders front hexes to Resist versus Backfire or be Dazed until they take a Pass Action to recover.

Once used, this ability cools down for 4 Pulses.

9.9 The Jawbone of an Ass

This magically preserved jawbone of a Rephaimite onager, weighs 6lbs, has been fashioned into a double 'bladed' falchion which is magically blunt and said to have been wielded by Samson. It is resilient enough that there is no chance of it breaking unless the wielder's PS exceeds 60. It requires a minimum PS & MD of 15, and inflicts base C Class damage of a rollup D10 + 2. For every 15 points of PS in excess of 15, the damage is increased by another rollup D10, in addition to bonuses from Falchion and Warrior.

The only weapon spells that may be cast upon it are Spectral Weapon and Rune Weapon, but only insofar as they allow the wielder to affect the insubstantial.

9.9.1 Beast of Spiritual Burden

The jawbone is a legal target for the Animating Bodily Parts spell, which will transform into the spectre of an onager which will carry non-magical equipment that fills a volume of 15 inches × 8 inches × 1 inch (+1 inch for every two Ranks) and weighs 20 lbs (+2 lbs for every two Ranks). At Rank 20, the spirit can carry double this volume and weight.

Unfortunately, it appears as a gaunt, chlorous ass whose eyes see into a realm of dread, and common people are most likely to run screaming. The constabulary, on the other hand, have been known to make their approach with hayricks, pitchforks and lit torches. Obviously, the Jawbone cannot be wielded as a weapon while it is in a state that makes it attractive to the constabulary, and, if its burden is not unladen, then when it is counterspelled, the weapon will weigh as much as its contents.

10 Abilities - Slaydar

10.1 Slaydar's Impious Strength

Slaydar's PS has increased by 4 points. This increase is permanent (sort of) and also affects the maximum value it can be raised to.

When he is within range of an entity with Death Aspect or has Death Sense, they will immediately know that whoever drinks his heartblood will have their PS increased by 4, with Slaydar losing the 'boon'.

10.2 Slaydar's Consoling Hand

Slaydar's Spectral Hand has known the despair of abandonment having spent sixteen days alone in a Trackless Waste. Once a day, he can direct an active Spectral Hand to console someone suffering emotional turmoil by patting them on the shoulder. If such a thing is possible, it will give them an opportunity to recover.

10.3 Slaydar's Hide

Slaydar's attachment to his race and ancestors has been enriched so that his Natural Armour has increased by 1.

10.4 Slaydar's Third Eye

Slaydar has a crescent shaped mark in the centre of his forehead. This is a closed eye. An observer within two hexes must make a 1 × PC check to realise what it is, unless the eye is open, in which case it's obvious. It allows him to advance the talent of Soul Sight.

He has a PC (+5 per Rank)%, less 1 for every hex distant after the first. If successful, its aura strength and something of the target's spiritual state is revealed. He can ask if an entity, object or hex-sized surface is

- attended by an ancestral spirit or otherwise haunted, and the reason for it.
- if the target has a burden on their soul (cursed or operating under a geas).
- the journey of their soul upon death.

If a double effect is rolled, then two of these questions may be asked, all three if the roll is a triple effect.

The Experience Multiple is 50.

10.5 Ancestral Spirits

These spirit are called by their descendants if they are shaman, usually by means of the Animating Bodily Parts spell, since it does not cause them to manifest physically, directly.

Over time, they will gather a host of ancestral spirits to aid them. If the spell is Rank 6 through to 10, they may call upon the host for one service per day, resetting at dusk.

- At Ranks 11 through to 14, they may ask for two services.
- At Ranks 15 through to 17, they may ask for three.
- At Ranks 18 or 19, four, and five at Rank 20.

The service always ends when the task is completed or duration expires, whichever comes first. If services remain, the same spirit or another of the host can be called on until no more are left.

Ancestral spirits often have a special ability which is advanced as a function of the spell, and this is italicised. Other abilities are not italicised. These may only be advanced by allowing the spirit to possess the shaman and engaging in training. This will require the use of one of their training tracks and the usual requirements, but only one spirit can be advanced per day of training. It is, however, considered either magical or non-magical training to the advantage of the shaman.

10.5.1 Toothgrinder

Toothgrinder is a Ranger of 1/3rd the Rank of the Animating Bodily Parts spell, except that he specialises in Forested or Wood terrains.

Once, he was a great leader of the Saka people, but they have fallen on hard times and their line has suffered corruption. His desire is to find a path for his people out of their current straits and towards something with greater honour.

10.6 Knap of the Earth

Slaydar has learnt a high speed Flying Manoeuvre that lets him fly at 25 feet above the ground - 1 per Rank in Flying. It applies only to methods of flight that involve wings or similar.

Their chance to perform this manoeuvre is $3 \times AG + 12 \times \text{Rank}$. A penalty of thirty is applied to their Flying Skill in addition to their speed in miles per hour, less one for every foot above the ground. It assumes that they are travelling at full speed or faster as a consequence of diving and, hopefully, pulling out before making contact with the ground. Speeds in excess of that granted by the method of flight bleed off each Pulse. However, at such speeds, control is compromised and speed can only be reduced by half the excess speed each Pulse or their Rank in mph, whichever is greater.

Example: Slaydar has Rank 3 with the Flying Skill and is diving on Rank 10 Shadow Wings. His speed has climbed to 70 mph, 30 mph faster than the wings can normally travel. After pulling out of the dive, Slaydar can slow his speed by half the excess (15 mph) down to 55 mph, then half that (7 mph) down to 47 mph, then half that (3 mph) to 43 mph, and finally down to the Shadow Wing's standard flight speed.

This only applies to the Knap of the Earth manoeuvre, and assumes he is spending his attention on avoiding obstacles and terrain features. An ability to decelerate to a stop in a second or two requires a high deceleration Flight Manoeuvre. Which is not this one.

11 Abilities - Sin

11.1 Sin's Wraithcloak

Sin's Wraithcloak Spell has been modified by an ancient Moon God so that it protects against damage from silvered weapons in addition to mundane weapons.

11.2 Sin's Consoling Hand

Sin's Spectral Hand has known the despair of abandonment having spent sixteen days alone in a Trackless Waste. Once a day, she can direct an active Spectral Hand to console someone suffering emotional turmoil by patting them on the shoulder. If such a thing is possible, it will give them an opportunity to recover.

12 Ancient Cantrips - Sin

12.1 Ancient Cantrip Gift of Moon-bright Silver

Range Touch

Duration MA minutes

Effects The Adept covers a single object in moon-bright silver for the duration of the cantrip. Were-creatures and lycanthropes who are damaged by this silver do not benefit from racial Damage Reduction and protections.

13 Ancient Cantrips - Unclaimed

13.1 Ancient Cantrip Zap

Range MA yards

Target Object or surface

Duration Immediate, during Pulse

Effects The Adept takes a Pass Action and if they roll under $3 \times MA (+ 2 \text{ per Troubador Rank})$, they "Zap" an object or surface for 1 point of magical damage.

14 Spells

14.1 Debt to Dagon

Range Touch

Duration Sustained: no maximum

Experience Multiple 100

Resist None

Storage None

Target Living Entity

Effects This spell transforms the target's head to be scaled and fish-like, which will reduce their PB to 3. The transformation will last while the target continues to pay 1 point of FT every Rank hours, e.g. 1 every hour at Rank 0, 1 every 2 hours at Rank 1 and so on.

The magic does not end unless the target consciously chooses not to spend the FT when the debt falls due.

While duration persists, the target can see, hear, speak and breathe under water as well as on land. It provides enough agency to Cast magic that is not, otherwise, restricted.

The target's original features bear no resemblance to their new head and cannot be sought by that means unless the Locating, Finding, Scrying or like magic is equal or greater in Rank.

This is considered a Special Knowledge spell of the Adept's college, and is not teachable.

14.2 Quicksilver Mind

Range Self

Duration 20 minutes (+ 20 minutes / Rank)

Experience Multiple 300

Resist None

Storage Potion

Target Sentient Entity

Effects This spell grants an Enchanter a certain elusiveness of thought. It creates a pool of extra Pass Actions, and, initially, the Adept can add 1 extra Pass Action per Pulse, 2 extra Pass Actions from Rank 15 to Rank 19, then 3 at Rank 20.

Rank	Pass Actions per Pulse
0 - 5	1 × 1
6 - 10	2
11 - 14	3
15 - 17	4 × 2
18 - 18	5
20	6 × 3

The spell ends when the pool is exhausted or duration expires.

The spell must be racked before it can be Cast, and requires an hourglass 3 inches tall made from fleur de minerai as a catalyst. This will cost 1 tsg. A lapidary, gemcutter or jeweller will charge 5 tsg to make it, which would be considered a masterwork for a journeyman, since it is a semi-precious gem of some delicacy.

Haggling over the price is forbidden lest the magic fail.

The spell does not become unracked in the normal course of events and neither does it reduce the Adept's FT value.

15 Incantations - E&E

15.1 Enchiridion of Bolt of Energy

This small, A5 sized booklet is made from cream coloured vellum bound with brass rings and weighs 11 oz. It contains instructions which will teach the Bolt of Energy spell, and incantations of the Bolt of Energy spell. Once an incantation is learnt, the ink will fade leaving a blank page.

It is a Spell Rack for Incantations of the Bolt of Energy spell, and is advanced separately.

15.2 Bolt of Energy - Levin Bolt

Resist Passive, for half damage

Effects A bolt of lightning about the length and shape of a javelin flies from the Adept's outstretched hand, damaging the first object or entity that it impacts for 1 rollup D10 (+1 per Rank) and are Dazed unless they Resist, in which case they take half damage. Dazed victims can take no other Action except a Pass Action to recover.

Cost 1000 Experience.

Constraints Unracks the spell, reduces FT value by 1

15.3 Bolt of Energy - Lightning Bolt

Range 60 feet

Resist Active, Passive

Target Entity, Object

Effects A single bolt of lightning 60 feet long flies from the Adept's fingertips. The bolt must extend the entire 60 feet and will deflect off stone until it reaches its full extent. All targets that are in the path of the bolt must resist or suffer [D + 5] (+ 1 / 3 Ranks) damage (save for half damage).

In addition, any target who fails to resist is automatically stunned.

Cost 2500 Experience.

Constraints Unracks the spell, reduces FT value by 2

15.4 Bolt of Energy - Bolt of Fire

Range 25 feet (+25 feet per Rank)

Resist Passive

Effects A bolt of fire flies from the Adept's outstretched hand, damaging the first object or entity that it impacts for 1 rollup D10 (+1 per Rank) of magical fire damage unless they Resist. If flammable, the target's clothing will ignite 70% of the time if they did not Resist.

Cost 1000 Experience.

Constraints Unracks the spell, reduces FT value by 1

15.5 Bolt of Energy - Ray of Cold

Resist Passive

Effects This incantation of the spell projects a blast of intense magical cold at the target. The ray of cold will impact either on the target or on the first obstruction blocking the path from the Adept to the target. Anything struck by the ray must either resist or suffer D10 (+ 1 / Rank) cold damage (resist for half).

Cost 1000 Experience.

Constraints Unracks the spell, reduces FT value by 1

15.6 Bolt of Energy - Razor Orb

Resist None

Effects If the Cast is successful, the Adept imbues a mass of tangled glass wire about 10 cms across with sufficient energy to fly at a target and inflict B Class damage. The glass wire will require the services of a Rank 8+ artisan glass blower who is also an abstract stained glass glazier. They will charge 10 tsg for each mass of glass wire and can only produce one every three days.

The chance to hit is the same as the Cast Chance less the target's Defence and Missile Range penalties. However, the Razor Orb inflicts damage directly to EN on 20% or less of the modified Strike Chance, and a Possible Specific Grievous injury on 10%. Damage is calculated at 1 rollup D10 (+1 rollup D10 for every ten Ranks) (+1 B Class Damage per Rank). Enhancing damage will increase the number of rollup D10s AND the damage per Rank.

Damage is affected by the Protection value of armour and Damage Reduction, if appropriate.

Cost 3000 Experience.

Constraints Unracks the spell, requires a mass of glass wire, reduces FT value by 2

15.7 Bolt of Energy - Burst of Energy

Resist None

Range Self

Target Sentient Entity

Effects The Adept may recover an amount of lost FT equal to the total number of non-Prime Ranks in the spell and it does not cost FT to Cast.

The Adept may only benefit from this incantation once per dawn, unless a duplicate is known.

Cost 3000 Experience.

Constraints Unracks the spell

15.8 Bolt of Energy - Cooling

Range 25 feet (+ 5 feet / Rank)

Duration 1 hour (+ 1 hour / Rank)

Resist None

Target Volume

Effects Lowers the ambient temperature of one 15 × 15 × 15 foot cube by 2°C / Rank.

Cost 750 Experience

Constraints Unracks the spell

15.9 Bolt of Energy - Orb of Flight

Range Self

Duration 20 minutes (+20 minutes per Rank)

Target Sentient Entity

Effects The Adept transforms into a reflective yellow orb about 30 cms across. In this form, they may move in three dimensions at their TMR (+1 per five full Ranks). Upon climbing to a height of 15 metres or more, they may accelerate up to a movement rate of 30 miles per hour (+1 mph per Rank), directing their travel by means of a Torrent of Energy. While the orb does not shed light, it is extremely eye-catching even in regions of low light, unless Invisible or Unseen.

As an orb, the Adept's base Defence is improved by 20 because of their small size, but they do not benefit from a shield or main-gauche. They may Evade, but gain no benefit from weapon Ranks.

They have no EN, PS, MD or PB in this form. They keep their AG, MA, WP and FT values. Once FT is exhausted, they are forced back to their normal form, whereupon they, routinely, plummet.

They may Prepare or Cast Spells and Rituals, use Talents, speak or understand a language, sing or use any Skill that does not require a physical form.

Cost 2500 Experience.

Constraints Unracks the spell, reduces FT value by 2

15.10 Bolt of Energy - Kinetic Orb

Effects This Incantation traps kinetic energy into a silvery orb 7 cms across which the Adept can project ballistically up to the range of the Spell. If the target fails to Resist, they take 1 rollup D10 magical impact damage (+1 for every 10 Ranks). If the damage of the spell is Enhanced, 1 extra rollup D10 is rolled for every 10 Ranks of Enhancement.

If any of the values on the damage D10 match (after rollups), then this represents a ricochet and the Adept can redirect the orb to another target within 30 feet of the original target and within range of the Spell. This effect is recursive.

Cost 2750 Experience.

Constraints Unracks the spell, reduces FT value by 2

15.11 Speaking to Enchanted Creatures - Speaking Beasts

Range 15 feet (+ 15 feet / Rank)

Duration 10 minutes (+ 10 minutes / Rank)

Target Living creature without a mother tongue

Effects Confers any one language known to the Adept at Rank 6 or greater upon a living vocal creature lacking a mother tongue. Language Rank equals 1 (+ 1 / 4 Ranks).

Cost 750 Experience

Constraints Unracks the spell

15.12 Quicksilver Mind - Quick Witted

Range Self

Duration 20 minutes (+ 20 minutes / Rank)

Resist None

Target Sentient Entity

Effects This Incantation creates a pool of Magical Prepare Actions that the Adept can perform in addition to and immediately prior to a Cast Action according to the schedule below:

Rank	Magical Prepare Actions
0 - 5	1
6 - 10	2
11 - 14	3
15 - 17	4
18 or 19	5
20	6

It must be racked in a Complex Spell Matrix that also holds the Quicksilver Mind spell along with this Incantation.

Cost 2,000 Experience.

Constraints Unracks the spell, requires a Complex Spell Matrix, reduces FT value by 2

15.13 Telekinesis - Distant Feeling

Range 10 feet (+ 5 feet / Rank)

Duration 20 minutes (+ 20 minutes / Rank)

Resist None

Target Self

Effects This Incantation gives the Adept a partial,remote sense of touch that penetrates light,darkness,mist,fog or smoke without penalty. The sense propagates over a narrowly defined cone which is as wide at the base as its range and blocked by physical obstructions. The Adept can detect pressure and texture but not temperature or corrosiveness. They could tell that a bar of red hot iron is a solid metal but not its temperature or that aqua regia is a fluid but not that it will dissolve flesh.

Within 5 feet (+ 5 feet per Rank), fine details may be made out, i.e. distinctions between individuals or that a bronze bell has just been rung. But,the sense provides no colour information,and it requires a 1 × PC (+5 × Rank) check to recognise someone from their appearance with it or vice versa. This is a function of their expertise with the sense,not a function of the magic,so applies even if the spell is not currently in effect.

The sense is more vulnerable to magic that catastrophically changes pressure,although the Adept suffers no increased damage or the like. If they are in the volume of effect of a spell like Thunderclap or an explosion,when they make a percentile check to see if they have avoided the effects,they double the result to see if this sense has been blinded.

This spell requires,as a catalyst, a bronze ring with the sign of the Eye of Fatima on the bezel, which may be worn on any finger of their dominant hand.

Cost 1,750 Experience.

Constraints Unracks the spell, catalyst: bronze ring of the Eye of Fatima

15.14 Ventriloquism - Whisperline

Range 90 feet

Duration 5 minutes (+ 3 minutes per Rank)

Resist None

Target Entity

Effects This Incantation allows the Adept to target 1 entity (+1 for every even Rank). While duration persists and the entities are within range, they can converse with each other clearly without being overheard. If a target steps out of range, but duration remains, then they automatically rejoin the speech community when close enough.

Cost 2,500 Experience.

Constraints Unracks the spell, reduces FT value by 1

16 Incantations - Celestial

16.1 Blackfire - Call the Entropy Locusts

Effects The Adept calls forth the Entropy Locusts which inflict 1 rollup D10 (+1 rollup D10 for every 10 Ranks) (+1 per Rank) on everything in the volume of effect. Damage from the dice cannot be Resisted, and damage inflicted to EN cannot be Healed, unless it is performed by a Healer who can Regenerate (Rank 9 or higher). EN damage suppresses Regeneration that arises out of Racial magic by 3 points per Pulse until EN is completely restored. If this prevents any Regeneration, then the effects of the suppression will end at dusk on he next Friday.

If applied against a defensive wall or structure, then only the damage generated from the rollup dice are applied, but this is considered siege damage.

This incantation requires the remains of a locust, which will be consumed when the spell is Cast.

Cost 5000 Experience.

Constraints Unracks the spell, consumes the remains of a locust, reduces FT value by 3

16.2 Blackfire - Carrion’s Ivory Grin

Range Sight

Duration Conc. Max of 1 Pulse (+1 per 4 Ranks)

Target Entity

Resistance Active, only

Effects The Adept calls forth 1 (+1 per Rank) horrors from the Astral in the form of jackals with flashing white teeth and bodies of darkness. No more than six of these jackals may attack a single one hex entity. Their TMR is equal to the Rank of the spell. They will move to their targets and inflict D10 (+1 per three Ranks) Dark Celestial damage at the end of each Pulse until the duration is exhausted. Each Jackal is immune to mundane damage but can only withstand 10 magical damage (+2 per Rank) which will dissipate it.

They have no Defence or Magic Resistance.

Cost 3500 Experience.

Constraints Unracks the spell, reduces FT value by 3

16.3 Blackfire - Torrent of the Styx

Effects The Adept fills the spell’s volume with a torrent of the Styx, which inflicts D10 (+2 per Rank) soul damage unless they Resist and Break 100. If they fail, they add their AG value to the result, if they succeed, they add 2 × their AG value. Failing the AG roll indicates that they lose lose 1 (+1 for every 4 Ranks) from their TMR to a minimum of 0.

Cost 3500 Experience.

Constraints Unracks the spell, reduces FT value by 3

16.4 Blending - Walking in Darkness

Target Self

Duration 5 minutes (+5 minutes per Rank)

Effects The Adept becomes Invisible so long as they do not move faster than one half of their TMR or make a Strike Check in melee or close (whether successful or not). Witchsight (or similar magic) that is of equal or higher Rank to the spell will penetrate the effects of the Incantation.

If the Rank of the spell is 16, and they become visible as a consequence of making a Strike Check, they become Invisible at the end of the Pulse.

The target may choose to end the spell at any time.

Cost 2500 Experience.

Constraints Unracks the spell, reduces FT value by 2

16.5 Bolt of Starfire - Torrent of Radiance

Range 1 hex (+ 1 hex for every 10 Ranks)

Duration Immediate (during Pulse)

Target Volume of Effect

Effects The Adept Casts a devastating cascade that effects the three hexes in front of them. This extends a hex further for every 10 Ranks. Any entity or object caught in the volume of efect must Resist or suffer 1 rollup D10 (+1 Radiant damage per Rank) (+1 rollup D10 for every ten Ranks).

For the total count of non-prime numbers less than or equal to the damage inflicted, targets are thrown away from the Adept as many feet, and must Break 100, adding their Agility to the result, or fall Prone.

E.g., if the spell inflicts 23 damage then targets will be thrown 14 feet further away from the Adept, since 22 is the 14th non-prime.

1	4	6	8	9	10	12	14	15	16	18	20	21	22	24	25	26
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	13	14	15	16	17

27	28	30	32	33	34	35	36	38	39	40	42	44	45	46
18	19	20	21	22	24	25	26	27	28	29	30	31	32	33

Because the damage is Radiant in nature, undead must roll under half their Magic Resistance to escape its effects.

Additionally, if the Cast Check falls in the range of a Double Effect, the Rank of the spell is increased by five. If it falls in the range of a Triple Effect, then the Rank is increased by fifteen.

Cost 2500 Experience.

Constraints Unracks the spell, reduces FT value by 2

16.6 Bolt of Starfire - Bolt of Phlegethon

Duration 1 Pulse (+1 per 4 Ranks)

Resist None

Effects The target of this spell takes 1 rollup D10 + 1 soul damage per Pulse until duration expires. If the Adept rolls in the range of a Double Effect, the Rank is increased by 5, or by 15 if the roll is in the range of a Triple Effect.

Cost 3000 Experience.

Constraints Unracks the spell, reduces FT value by 2

16.7 Healing - Dark Physician

Duration 1 Pulse (+ 1 Pulse for every even Rank)

Range 5 ft

Resist None

Target Dark Physician

Effects This Incantation summons a Physician from a sinister plane of Darkness to a hex adjacent to the Adept. It has a combined FT & EN of 1 rollup D10 (+1 rollup D10 for every even Rank) and a TMR of 4 (+ 1 for every even Rank). If the summoner can Speak to Creatures of Darkness, they may give the Physician a new instruction with a Pass Action or a Free Act while it is in line of sight and within range of the Talent.

The Dark Physician can move up to half its TMR then perform a Heal Action on an adjacent patient and vice versa. A Heal Action restores up to 1 (+1 for every even Rank) DP, which drains the Physician of a like amount. It knows when more Healing will not benefit the patient.

It has no Defence or Magic Resistance and it is dissipated when its combined EN & FT falls to zero. Double and Triple effects only apply to duration.

Cost 3,500 Experience

Constraints Unracks the spell, reduces FT value by 3

16.8 Increased Gravity - The Gathering of Acheron

Resist None

Duration Until dawn

Effects The target of this Incantation gathers woe so that whenever they make a percentile check, each d10 is read for the highest possible value unless the preferred result would be high. This is a minor curse.

Cost 5,000 Experience

Constraints Unracks the spell, reduces FT value by 2

16.9 Increased Gravity - Gravity Well

Range 60 feet + 15 / Rank

Duration Concentration: maximum 1 minute + 1 / Rank

Resist None Target

Volume

Effects This Incantation targets a point on a surface which is within range to act as a gravity well. Things will be drawn towards it if they are within 1 hex (+1 hex per 2 Ranks) unless they succeed at a 3 × PS (- 2 per Rank of the spell) roll. The rate that they travel towards the well is 1 hex for every two Ranks in the spell. If the value of their 3 × PS (- 2 per Rank of the spell) roll is less than 40, they must also make an AG × 2 roll to avoid falling prone. Once prone, a 3 × PS (- 2 per Rank of the spell) roll is required in order to stand up. If the target's strength is reduced to less than zero, the target suffers the negative amount as damage each pulse and must roll under Willpower + current Endurance in order to remain conscious.

If the target is under (or comes under) the effect of a flying spell, the following applies:

- If the rank of the flying spell is greater than the rank of this Incantation then the target may be able to fly. However, twice the rank of the Incantation is subtracted from the rank of the flying spell for purposes of determining speed and lift of the flying spell. This may make it a negative modifier which may reduce the speed to 0 or less, in which case the target may not fly but may stand.
- If the rank of the flying spell is less than or equal to the rank of this Incantation, then the target may not fly. However, half the rank of the flying spell is subtracted from the rank of the Increased Gravity for purposes of determining strength. If a thrown, missile or siege weapon passes within range of the gravity well, they will automatically be drawn towards it, as are Earth Hammer, Diamond Javelins, Ice Projectiles, Bolt of Ice and Snowball spells.

Cost 2500 Experience.

Constraints Unracks the spell, reduces FT value by 2

16.10 Increased Gravity - Orientation

Range Touch

Duration 1 minute + 1 / Rank

Resist None

Target Surface

Effects This Incantation allows the Adept to change the surface that they are gravitationally attracted to so that they can walk up and down walls and across ceilings. Changing Orientation requires a Pass Action until Rank 20, in which case it takes either a Free Act or a Pass Action.

Cost 1500 Experience.

Constraints Unracks the spell, reduces FT value by 1

16.11 Increased Gravity - Weight Reduction

Range Touch

Duration 20 minutes (+20 minutes / Rank)

Resist None

Target Non-magical Object

Effects This Incantation reverses the effects of gravity somewhat so that the Adept may target a non-magical object (and its contents, if any) that weighs less than 10 lbs (+ 2 lbs / Rank). This Incantation halves the weight of the non-magical object and its contents, except for magical ones, for the duration.

At Rank 20, the Incantation halves the weight again to a quarter of the original weight, and the duration is, instead, 12 hours.

Cost 1750 Experience.

Constraints Unracks the spell, reduces FT value by 1

16.12 Increased Gravity - Angular Moment of Doom

Range Touch

Duration 5 minutes (+1 minute / Rank)

Resist None

Target C Class hafted or special weapon

Effects This Incantation targets a C Class hafted or special weapon like a mace, club, rock, sap, mattock or flail, increasing the Strike Chance by 5 (+ 1 per Rank) and damage by 1 for every 3 Ranks. In addition, when thrown, the range is doubled and it is treated as a missile weapon.

Cost 1500 Experience.

Constraints Unracks the spell, reduces FT value by 1

16.13 Increased Gravity - Inertial Void

Range None

Duration Concentration: maximum 1 minute + 1 / Rank

Resist None

Target Self

Effects For the duration of this Incantation, the Adept bends the void so that they may move ignoring the effects of inertia. Although they cover the intervening distance, to most, they seem to disappear from one place and appear elsewhere in an instant.

While duration persists, they may use this magic once for every three Ranks of the spell, which will require a Pass Action. At Rank 10, the Adept can use either a Pass Action or a Free Act. At Rank 16 and again at Rank 20, the Incantation converts a use to a Reflex Action. As a Reflex Action, the Adept may avoid an attack, even one that propagates over a volume like Dragonflames or Blackfire, so long as they are not surprised and there is somewhere safe they can get to.

This means that at Rank 9, they may use Inertial Void three times, each requiring a Pass Action. At Rank 10, they may use it three times, each requiring a Free Act or a Pass Action. At Rank 16, they have four uses that require a Free Act or a Pass Action, and 1 that requires a Reflex Action, a Free Act or a Pass Action.

Each use allows inertialess travel of up to six hexes (+1 hex per 2 Ranks), which must be in a straight line. In addition, this movement attracts a FT penalty as if it were two hours of Medium exercise, so encumbrance can become a concern.

Cost 3500 Experience.

Constraints Unracks the spell, reduces FT value by 3

16.14 Strength of Darkness - Enhanced Duration

Duration 30 minutes (+30 minutes per Rank)

Target Self

Effects The Adept's Physical Strength is increased by 1 (+ 1 for every 2 (or fraction) Ranks) for the duration of the spell.

Cost 500 Experience

Constraints Unracks the spell

16.15 Whitefire - Charon's Gaze

Effects If the target of this Incantation is a single hex creature and fails to Resist, then their EN and FT are both reduced to 0 or, if they Resist, they take D5 (+1 / Rank) soul damage. A multi-hex creature that fails to Resist takes D10 (+2 / Rank) soul damage, half that if they Resist.

This incantation requires a copper coin taken from the eye of a corpse, which will be consumed when the spell is Cast.

Cost 4000 Experience.

Constraints Unracks the spell, copper coin, reduces FT value by 2

16.16 Whitefire - Dark Riving

Range 30 feet (+ 15 feet / Rank)

Duration Immediate, during Pulse

Resist Active, Passive

Storage Ward, Magical Trap

Target Entity

Effects This Incantation summons a matte black spinning disc about a foot across from a space between spaces and throws it at a target of the Adept's choosing within range. The disc shatters against any target that successfully Resists, inflicting 1 rollup D5 (+1 per Rank) of bitterly cold spell damage. Failing to Resist means that the disc has riven the target's heart entirely, either horizontally or vertically at the Adept's choice. Mostly, this will just lead to notifications to those who are Life- or Death-Aspected.

Multi-hex creatures are treated differently by this spell since their hearts are more deeply buried. Even if they fail to Resist, the disc shatters. However, they take 1 rollup D10 (+2 per Rank) of bitterly cold spell damage, instead.

This Incantation requires a heavy ring of truesilver distilled seven times and set with a black opal. This is a catalyst and must be worn on the Adept's left thumb.

The ring will require the arts of a Rank 8+ Jeweller, the materials of which will cost 10,000 sp for the band and 12,000 sp for the stone. The Adept must pay the Jeweller 3,000 sp for their labour, and haggling cannot be engaged in lest the magic fail. This labour must be begun on a Sunday at dusk and completed on a Thursday after a Friday only if that day is darkened by storm. No other work can be undertaken during this time.

Cost 2,500 Experience.

Constraints Reduces FT value by 1, catalyst: truesilver ring set with black opal

16.17 Wall of Darkness - Knell of Doom

Duration 1 Pulse (+ 1 Pulse for every 4 Ranks)

Range 10 ft (+10 ft per Rank)

Resist None

Target Volume

Effects This Incantation manifests as a

- 1 hex bell made of darkness tolling above a cylinder 3 hexes high & 3 across
- 2 hex bell made of darkness tolling above a cylinder 5 hexes high & 5 across at Rank 10
- 3 hex bell made of darkness tolling above a cylinder 7 hexes high & 7 across at Rank 20

The tone of the bell is a forlorn lamentation, dispiriting to the ear and burdensome to the spirit.

Any mortal inside the volume cannot be Healed, whether by Spell, Talent, Consumable, Invested or Device.

Any attempt to Cast, Trigger or Use a consumable that Heals inside the volume automatically fails.

This lasts until duration expires or they leave the volume.

Racial Magic is unaffected.

The Incantation requires a handbell made of ithildin as a catalyst.

Cost 2,500 Experience

Constraints Unracks the spell, reduces FT value by 2, catalyst: ithildin handbell

16.18 Witchsight - Minor AoE

Effects All legal targets that share the megahex of the caster's megahex at the time of casting benefit from the Witchsight spell for the duration of the spell.

Cost 500 Experience

Constraints Unracks the spell

17 Incantations - Necromancy

17.1 Animating Bodily Parts - Grave Witness

Range Rank × Rank miles

Duration Year and a day

Target Skull

Effects This Incantation enchants a skull which has been dressed in the oil of Arum lilies. This can be prepared by a Herbalist of Rank 4 or higher, which will cost 12 gs and three days to prepare. The oil is toxic to the touch, and the briefest exposure will cause an infection.

When a link is formed, they can see whatever the skull is pointed at. At Rank 10, they can hear anything normally audible within 15 feet of it. At Rank 15 they can speak through it.

To form the link, the Adept makes an Ask the Dead Check which lasts for 20 minutes (+5 minutes per Rank of the talent). It lasts for no more than a year and a day, until Counterspelled or until a Speak with Dead Check to make the link fails. The Adept can only enchant one skull at a time, unless they have a duplicate Incantation.

Cost 1,500 Experience.

Constraints Unracks the spell, reagent: Oil of Arum Lilies

17.2 Binding Lesser Undead - Unbinding the Undead

Range 30 feet (+5 ft / Rank)

Resist Special

Duration 1 Pulse (+1 per 5 Ranks)

Target Lesser Undead

Effects This Incantation destroys 1 (+1 per 2 or fraction Ranks) of the Lesser Undead if it is not Resisted. Difference in Rank, if any, is not considered.

Cost 1,500 Experience.

Constraints Unracks the spell, reduces FT value by 1

17.3 Bone Construction - Bridge of the Grave

Duration Special

Range Self

Effects This Incantation creates a reserve from which a path can be built that the Adept can travel on. The reserve is equal to 5 hexes per Rank and requires a Free Act to lay path, which can be no longer than their TMR per Pulse. Path used that is less than a hex is considered to have used a hex. Movement up or down is at a 45 degree angle, and uses one hex up for every horizontal hex. When the reserve is used up, the entire path dissipates. If it hasn't dissipated, it will fade away when the sun rises.

Cost 1500 Experience.

Constraints Unracks the spell, reduces FT value by 1

17.4 Detecting Undead - Sense the Undead

Range 10 feet (+10 feet per Rank)

Duration 20 seconds (+ 20 seconds per Rank)

Resist None

Target Self

Effects This Incantation makes the Adept immediately aware of the class (Lesser or Greater), approximate number (to the nearest 5), and general location (to the nearest 20 feet) of all Undead within range for the duration.

Cost 2,500 Experience.

Constraints Unracks the spell, reduces FT value by 1

17.5 Fear - Unsettling Aspect

Range Self

Duration 20 minutes (+ 20 minutes / Rank)

Effects This Incantation gives the Adept an unsettling aspect so that if they fix their attention on an entity, requiring a Pass Action, they must Resist or be unsettled and seek to avoid the Adept's attention.

The target must be within 10 feet (+ 1 foot per Rank).

Cost 1,250 Experience.

Constraints Unracks the spell

17.6 Fear - Intimidating Glare

Range Self

Duration 20 minutes (+5 minutes / Rank)

Resist Special

Target Sentient Entity

Effects This Incantation creates a pool of Glares. While the pool is not empty and duration remains, the Adept may spend a Reflex Action once per Pulse to Glare at a target.

The Adept makes a Cast Check at a mortal and the target must Break ($80 + \text{Rank} + 2 \times \text{WP}$) to avoid the effects. Upon failure, they make a Fright Check of $2d10 + 5$ and apply the results.

Rank	Glare Pool
0 – 5	1
6 – 10	2
11 – 14	3
15 – 17	4
18 or 19	5
20	6

The target must be within 10 feet (+ 1 foot per Rank).

Cost 1,750 Experience.

Constraints Unracks the spell, reduces FT value by 1

17.7 Hand of Death - Gauntlet of Ancestral Wrath

Range 30 feet (+ 5 feet per Rank)

Duration Concentration Maximum: 60 seconds (+10 seconds per Rank)

Target Object or Entity

Resist Passive/None

Effects This Incantation creates a spiritual well of violence birthed from the injustices visited upon their ancestors. By taking a Magical Fire Action, the Adept targets an entity that weighs less than 25 lbs (+ 25 lbs per Rank). If they fail to Resist, they are hurled along a gauntlet of force at bone-breaking speed to the extent of the range unless stopped by an obstacle. They receive 1 rollup D10 for every 10 feet thrown, less their Spell Armour which ends the effects of the Incantation on them. They may be targetted again by the Adept and are entitled to another Magic Resistance check. Once a target successfully Resists, they cannot be hurled by this casting of the Incantation. Damage may not be doubled or tripled but range and duration may be. Magic Resistance may be reduced by 20 on a triple effect.

Alternatively, the Adept may use a Magical Fire Action to throw an improvised object weighing no more than Rank lbs and hurl it at an object or entity within range. The Cast Chance of the spell is used to determine Strike Chance, modified by the target's ranged Defence. The default damage is D5! (+1 per Rank) C Class damage. Defences that apply against non-magical impact damage like Protection from armour, for example, reduces this damage, but Magic Resistance does not apply. Damage may not be doubled or tripled, nor does it inflict damage directly to EN or Specific Grievous injuries. This Incantation cannot normally cause a Stun condition.

When the Incantation is Cast, it drains a point of Willpower from the Adept. Willpower returns at a rate 1 every three days of rest, being defined as a day wherein they lose no more than half their FT.

Cost 7,000 Experience

Constraints Unracks the spell, reduces FT value by 2.

17.8 Hand of Death - Hand of Gravemould

Range 20 feet + 5 / Rank

Duration 20 minutes + 20 minutes / Rank

Resist Passive

Target Living Entity, Area

Effects This Incantation summons a hand made from earth and gravemould out of the ground within range. The hand is 7 feet tall, smells of the tomb and will clutch anything living (except the Adept) that enters the hex it occupies. It will continue to do so until it has caught something. Any living entity standing on a spot where a hand materialises will be snatched up if they fail to Resist, otherwise the hand appears next to them within the hex.

An entity so caught will still be able to wield a weapon or cast if they roll under $2 \times MD$. Entities (or combination of entities) with a combined PS + target's AG greater than 40 (+ 2 / Rank) may attempt a $1 \times PS$ percentile roll to escape from the Hand, and may do so every Pulse after the first. A hand that is broken out of will gradually fade away over a minute and may provide hard cover (GM discretion).

Cost 1,000 Experience

Constraints Reduces FT value by 1.

17.9 Hand of Death - Touch of Caina

Duration 1 Pulse (+ 1 per 10 Ranks)

Range 20 feet (+ 5 feet per Rank)

Resist Active/Passive

Target Corporeal Entity

Effects This Incantation summons a translucent skeletal hand from Caina on the 7th Plane. If the target fails to Resist, they take 1 rollup D10 magical cold damage a Pulse. While duration persists, if the target makes a Strike or Cast check, a D20 is added to the result, making it less likely. Damage may not be doubled or tripled but other critical results may be.

Cost 1,000 Experience

Constraints Unracks the spell, reduces FT value by 1.

17.10 Hand of Death - Cascade of Fire and Brimstone

Duration Immediate (during Pulse)

Range 1 hex (+1 hex per 10 Ranks)

Resist Passive

Target Volume

Effects This Incantation summons an infernal torrent from the 7th Plane in the form of a cone where the base is equal to the range. This erupts from the Adept's out-stretched hand and inflicts 1 rollup D10 magical fire damage (+1 rollup D10 per 10 Ranks), half this if Resistance is successful.

Cost 1,000 Experience

Constraints Unracks the spell.

17.11 Hand of Death - Lightning Thrust

Duration Immediate (during Pulse)

Range Touch

Resist Passive

Target Object or Entity

Effects This Incantation enlivens the Adept so that their Initiative value is improved by 10 + the Rank of the spell and, assuming a successful Cast, automatically touch an adjacent target. If Resistance is failed, the target is Stunned and takes D10 +5 (+1 per 3 or fraction Ranks), half this otherwise.

The Adept may choose this Incantation after Initiative has been determined if they have a Hand of Death spell Prepared to improve their action precedence.

Cost 1,000 Experience

Constraints Unracks the spell, reduces FT value by 1.

17.12 Life Draining - Blood Draw

Duration 1 hour + 1 / Rank

Resist Passive

Target Self

Effects When the Adept casts this spell on themselves, the next 1 (+ 1 / 5 Ranks) successful Strikes in Melee or Close force the target to Resist or they are drained of 1 (+ 1 / Rank) Fatigue. The Fatigue may be used to repair the Adept's own Fatigue and/or Endurance. If the target has no Fatigue remaining the Adept may drain from Endurance instead. The Adept may not drain from both Fatigue and Endurance with one successful Strike.

Note that only living entities will be affected by this spell and the Adept may not drain themselves.

Cost 3500 Experience.

Constraints Unracks the spell, reduces FT value by 3

17.13 Noxious Vapours - Obscurement

Range 15 feet (+ 15 feet / Rank)

Duration 1 minute (+1 minute / Rank)

Resist Passive

Target Volume

Effects This Incantation creates a 5-foot cube of oily black smoke (+1 foot to each dimension per Rank). The vision of all entities except the Adept is reduced to 5 feet. The Adept's sight is unaffected, as is any entity who, upon contact with the Obscurement, Breaks 80 + Rank, adding PC + WP to the result.

This requires a bundle of wormwood which will cost 25 sp and weighs 7 oz, which will automatically ignite when the Incantation is successfully cast, consuming it.

Cost 750 Experience.

Constraints Unracks the spell, reagent: Bundle of Wormwood

17.14 Noxious Vapours - Mist of the Poppy

Duration 20 seconds (+ 20 seconds per Rank)

Range 10 feet (+ 10 feet per Rank)

Resist Active & Passive

Target Volume

Effects The Adept conjures the spirits of the poppy to inhabit the reagent and send it to a place that is within line of sight and range. When it arrives, the reagent will release a faint, translucent mist that propagates over a diameter of 3 hexes (+ 2 hexes per 10 Ranks). Any breathing entity within the volume must Resist or fall into a gentle slumber for no longer than the duration. Those that Resist become drowsy, have their Strike Chances reduced by 10 (+ 1 / Rank), and must make a Willpower concentration check to use Spell magic. The multiplier for this check is

Rank	Multiplier
0 – 7	4.0
8 – 13	3.0
14 – 18	2.0
19 – 20	1.0

This incantation requires Liquors of the Poppy, which is made by steeping a pound of poppy seeds (costing 4 gold shillings) in seven cups of fine brandywine and henbane (costing a truesilver guinea) for seven days from moonrise on a Monday. This must be poured into a vessel and simmered without boiling until moonrise on Tuesday, the vapours taken and cooled using a cunning copper device crafted for collecting such things. Only the topmost of the condensate has virtue, the rest being noisome to the nose and heart. It must be poured into a glass phial 3 inches long, sealed with beeswax which will weigh 3 oz.

Cost 1,000 Experience

Constraints Unracks the spell, reagent: Liquor of the Poppy

17.15 Petit Mort - Breathless

Duration 2 hours (+30 minutes / Rank)

Target Self

Effects The Adept no longer needs to breathe and can ignore the effects of either a vacuum or high pressure conditions (for example, deep under water). They may Cast spells in these conditions and it does not affect their ability to operate on the surface.

Cost 2500 Experience.

Constraints Unracks the spell, reduces FT value by 2

17.16 Petit Mort - Deathwalker

Duration 20 minutes (+ 1 minute per Rank)

Range 15 feet (+ 5 feet per Rank)

Target Living Entity

Effects The Adept conceals the spirit of a living entity within range so as to appear dead and uninteresting to the Undead. Other than that, it does not provide any special defences against the Undead, nor does it make them Invisible or Unseen. It may attract the attention of intelligent Undead, who may identify a walking dead person as worth particular investigation. Nevertheless, it allows Ivisibility, Blending or Walking Unseen to work against an Undead observer

Cost 1,500 Experience.

Constraints Unracks the spell, reduces FT value by 1

17.17 Petit Mort - The End of Pain & Joy

Duration 20 minutes (+ 20 minutes per Rank)

Range 15 feet (+ 5 feet per Rank)

Target Living Entity

Effects This Incantation allows the Adept to drain the all joy and suffering from their target, who will increase their defences against Stun, Pain, Fear, Charm or magic that attacks their mind at the expense of draining their world of all joy.

- At Ranks 2, 5, 8, 11, 14, 17: the target increases their Stun Factor by 1.
- At Rank 20, they do not Stun while duration persists.
- The target increases their Resistance by 3 versus magic that causes pain. At Rank 20, they feel no Pain so automatically Resist the magic. If it has a secondary effect, they may attempt to Resist that, as well, by rolling under their Magic Resistance.
- The target increases their Resistance by 3 versus magic that causes Fear or that Charms. At Rank 20, they increase this Resistance by 30.
- The target increases their WP with respect to Control Person, Control Animal, Mental Attack, Phantasm or other magic from the College of the Sorceries of the Mind which attack the intellect. At Rank 20, this value doubles.

When the Incantation ends, the target reduces the value of their WP stat by 1 for every ten minutes or part thereof that they have endured this magic. This will recover at a rate of 1 for every 3 days of rest, being defined as a day wherein they lose no more than half their FT.

Cost 5,000 Experience.

Constraints Unracks the spell, reduces FT value by 2

17.18 Putrescence - Ripen

Range 5 feet (+ 1 foot / Rank)

Target Food or Drink

Effects This Incantation ages 1 cubic foot (+1 cubic foot / Rank) of food or drink by one additional day per Rank without causing it to rot or spoil. For food or drink that benefits from aging — pickles, cheese, wine, eggs or the like — it gradually improves their flavour. It will also ripen fruit, grain and vegetables or mature beef, venison or other meat.

Cost 750 Experience.

Constraints Unracks the spell

17.19 Putrid Wound - Bleeding Footprints

Range 15 feet (+ 15 feet / Rank)

Duration Special

Resist Active, Passive

Target Entity with a circulatory system

Effects This Incantation inflicts a wound to the target's foot of 1 rollup D10 unless they successfully Resist. Otherwise, it ignores Protection, Damage Reduction or Spell Armour and cannot be Healed by spell, Skill or device.

While the wound is unhealed, the target leaves bloody footprints behind which is seeable only to the Adept. Obviously, not terribly handy against a swimming or flying opponent, assuming they even have heels.

This incantation requires an arrowhead carved from bone as a reagent.

Cost 500 Experience.

Constraints Unracks the spell, reagent: bone arrowhead

17.20 Putrid Wound - Boiling Blood

Resist Special

Duration 1 Pulse (+1 per 5 Ranks)

Target Entities with circulatory systems

Effects If this Incantation is not Resisted, the target's blood (or what have you) is heated and they suffer D10 damage per pulse from hyperthermia until duration expires. Spell Armour does not protect against this magic.

Only creatures with a circulatory system may be affected by this spell.

Cost 1,500 Experience.

Constraints Unracks the spell, reduces FT value by 1

17.21 Putrid Wound - Chain Cast

Effects If Putrid Woound has been Cast the previous Pulse, this Incantation may be Cast without Preparing it. The FT cost must still be paid, however, if there is one.

Cost 750 Experience.

Constraints Unracks the spell

17.22 Putrid Wound - Spirit Dagger

Resist Special

Target Object or Entity, Volume

Effects This Incantation fires a grisly knife of bone that inflicts D10 + 1 / Rank magical A Class damage. Protection, Damage Resistance and Damage Reduction applies, if appropriate, but the damage of the Knife may not be Resisted and the magic avoids Spell Armour. If effective damage is taken, the knife transforms into dust over the target's megahex, inflicting 2 rollup D5 soul damage to everything in it, unless each Resists. Spell Armour applies to this damage.

Cost 2,500 Experience.

Constraints Unracks the spell, reduces FT value by 1

17.23 Rigor Mortis - Skeleton Lock

Range 15 feet (+ 15 feet / Rank)

Duration Special

Resist Active, Passive

Target Entity with a skeleton

Effects This Incantation siezes the target's musculature in a rictus and prevents them from moving their joints. Speech and eye movements are much less affected, which is of small comfort since they are locked rigid until they have taken a number of Pass Actions determined by the schedule below:

Rank	Pass Actions
0 - 5	1
6 - 10	2
11 - 14	3
15 - 17	4
18 or 19	5
20	6

They may, freely, however, take the opportunity to memorise the features of the Adept and pile insults upon them. This Incantation requires the index finger bone of a ghul as a catalyst.

Cost 1,500 Experience.

Constraints Unracks the spell, catalyst: index finger bone of a ghul.

17.24 Spectral Hand - Earth Mover

Duration 1 hour

Range 15 feet (+ 5 feet / Rank)

Resist None

Target Shovel or spade

Effects This Incantation creates a spectral earth moving force which will appear anywhere within range and may be directed by the Adept with a Pass Action.

The Earth Mover will shift a volume of earth, snow, broken stone etc. up to 20 feet over an hour according to the schedule below:

Cubic Footage Table

19	212	79 ½	63 ¾	42 ¾	31 ¾	21 ½
20	220	82 ½	66	44	33	22

The columns for Ice and Stone reflect occasional efforts to break the material up enough for it to be moved.

The Incantation requires a shovel or spade as a catalyst.

Cost 2,500 Experience

Constraints Unracks the spell, reduces FT value by 1, catalyst: shovel or spade.

17.25 Spectral Warrior - Barque of the Night

Range Touch

Duration 20 minutes (+20 minutes / Rank)

Target Papyrus of Sat Mesektet

Effects This Incantation targets the papyrus of the Daughter of Mesektet, a reed boat that is half a metre wide, two metres long and 20 cms deep. A spectral wave of night lifts the barque into the sky and propels it at up to 30 miles per hour (+ 1 mph / Rank).

It can fly as slow as 4 hexes per Pulse, otherwise the magic fails.

Cost 2500 Experience.

Constraints Unracks the spell, requires Papyrus of Sat Mesektet as a catalyst, reduces FT value by 1

17.26 Spectral Warrior - The Thirtieth Reckoning

Duration 10 minutes (+1 minute per Rank)

Target Self

Effects The Adept is surrounded by the spectral form of a massive scimitar cat called the Thirtieth Reckoning, a servant of the Moon God Sin, which provides ablative Protection of 10 (+ 5 / 2 Ranks). The spell ends when Counterspelled by the Adept, the Protection is exhausted or duration expires.

The spectral form has a PS of 25 (+1 per five Ranks), MD of 20 (+1 per five Ranks), AG of 20 (+1 per five Ranks) TMR of 12 and a movement rate of 600 yards per minute (20.5 mph). The Adept may benefit from 3 points of Protection from the form's hide, unless their own armour is better.

17.26.1 Combat Mechanics

The form has two Claw and a Bite attack routine which may be delivered in Melee or Close. If two of these three attacks are successful, then a free Rake attack is allowed.

The maximum Rank of each attack is determined by the Rank of the spell:

Bite	SC 45	DM +7	A Class	MC	Max Rk: Rank / 4
Claw	SC 50	DM +5	B Class	MC	Max Rk: Rank / 3, 7 @ Rk 19, 8 @ Rk 20
Rake	SC 55	2 rollup D10 + 3	B Class	C	Max Rk: Rank / 5

17.26.2 Experience & Advancement

This does not require a trainer, although the Adept must commune with the Reckoning as if it were Weapon Ranking, although it counts as Magic Training.

Experience Cost per Rank

Attack	Rk 0	Rk 1	Rk 2	Rk 3	Rk 4	Rk 5	Rk 6	Rk 7	Rk 8
Bite	75 7	5 1	50	200	500	1000	—	—	—

17.26.3 The Bite: Specific Grievous Injury Table

01 – 05 Congratulations! It's a bleeder in your primary arm! Take 1 Damage Point from Endurance immediately and 1 per pulse thereafter until the flow is staunch by a Healer of Rank 0 or above or you die.

06 – 07 Oh no! Your opponent's weapon has entered your secondary arm's elbow joint. Take 2 Damage Points immediately from Endurance and that arm is useless until the sliver has been treated by a Healer of Rank 3 or above. Also, increase the chance of infection by 30.

08 - 12 You have been stabbed in your secondary arm. Drop whatever you were holding in it and take 2 Damage Points immediately from Endurance. It will take a full week for the arm to be of any use to you whatsoever.

On a roll of 6–10, your right eye is blinded. If you are lucky enough to be blinded instead of killed, you have suffered 2 Damage Points to Endurance. In addition, a figure who is blind in one eye suffers the following subtractions: -1 from MD, -2 from PB, -4 from Perception. A figure blinded in one eye reduces their base chance with any missile or thrown weapon by 30.

14 – 18 Tsk, tsk. A wound of the solid viscera. Usually fatal. Take 3 Damage Points to Endurance immediately and 1 per pulse thereafter until the bleeding is stopped by a Healer of Rank 2 or above or you die. Add 30 to the chance of infection.

19 – 20 Take a stab in the leg (your choice as to which one) resulting in a deep puncture of the thigh muscle. Suffer 1 Damage Point to Endurance immediately and reduce your TMR by 1 until you heal, which will take 4 weeks.

21 – 24 A nasty puncture in the region of the shoulder and neck. Your secondary collar bone is crushed. Drop anything held in that hand and take 4 Damage Points to Endurance.

25 – 27 A nasty puncture in the region of the shoulder and neck. Your primary collar bone is crushed. Drop anything held in that hand and take 4 Damage Points to Endurance.

17.26.4 The Rake: Specific Grievous Injury Table

21 – 25 A chest wound. Take 2 Damage Points to Endurance immediately and reduce your TMR by 1 until recovered (about 2 months).

26 – 28 Bad luck! Your secondary hand has been severed at the wrist. Take 2 Damage Points immediately from Endurance and 1 point per pulse from Fatigue thereafter (Endurance when Fatigue is exhausted) until you are dead or the bleeding is staunched by a Healer of Rank 0 or above. If you live, reduce your MD by 2.

29 – 31 Worst luck! Your primary hand has been severed. See result 26–27 for effects.

33 – 35 Your secondary arm is sliced off at the shoulder. Take 5 Damage Points immediately from Endurance and 1 per pulse thereafter from Fatigue (Endurance when Fatigue is exhausted) until you are dead or the bleeding is staunched by a Healer of Rank 1 or above. Reduce your MD by 2 and your AG by 1.

36 Your primary arm is sliced off at the shoulder. Take 5 Damage Points immediately from Endurance and 1 per pulse thereafter from Fatigue (Endurance when Fatigue is exhausted) until you are dead or the bleeding is staunched by a Healer of Rank 1 or above. Reduce your MD by 2 and your AG by 1.

37 – 42 You have been eviscerated! Take 4 Damage Points immediately from Endurance and 1 point per pulse from Fatigue thereafter (Endurance when Fatigue is exhausted) until you are unconscious. Increase your chance of infection by 40.

43 – 48 A slash along one arm, and it's a bleeder! Take 2 Damage Points immediately from Endurance and lose 1 point from Fatigue (Endurance when Fatigue is exhausted) each pulse until the bleeding is stopped by a Healer of Rank 1 or above or you die.

51 – 52 Hamstrung! Roll D10. On a roll of 1–4, it is your left leg. On a roll of 5–10 it is your right. Take 4 Damage Points immediately from Endurance and fall prone. You may not stand unassisted until the wound is healed (which should take three months). Reduce your AG by 3 permanently.

53 – 60 Your primary arm is crippled by a wicked slash! Take 2 damage Points immediately to Endurance and drop anything you have in your primary hand. The arm is unusable until healed, which should take 2 months.

61 – 67 Your secondary arm is crippled; see 53–60 for details.

68 – 69 A nasty slash in the region of the shoulder and neck. Roll D10. On a roll of 1–3, your head is severed and your corpse tumbles to the ground. On a roll of 4–6, your secondary collar bone is crushed; on a roll of 7–10 your primary collar bone is crushed. If your collar bone is crushed, the results are identical to 53–60, except you suffer 4 Damage Points to Endurance.

70 – 74 A crushing blow smashes your torso. Take 3 Damage Points from Endurance and suffer a reduction of 4 in both PS and MD lasting for 3 days.

75 – 80 A massive chest wound accompanied by broken ribs and crushed tissues. Very ugly, this. Take 5 Damage Points immediately from Endurance. Reduce your MD and AG by 3 each until this wound heals (which should take about 4 months). Increase your chance of infection by 10.

19.1 Award for The Subliminal Court - Slaydar

DM Jim Arona

Slaydar leaves on 24th day of Fruit 825 WK, returns to Seagate on the 30th day of Harvest 825 WK and, now, may be styled "Grave Speaker".

He has gathered together the spirits of an extinct, chaos-touched nomadic people distantly descended of the Nephilim, called the Saka. They bear a strong resemblance to Orcs and worship, among others, a cold and detached primordial called Krom.

When Slaydar gathers together a tribe, the relict Saka ancestors will form their shamanic background, which will foster a sense of cohesion and community and may, with time, become a people.

The Saka will support the kind of activities that they revered in life: wander the land, sandy wastes & shores, honour nature, its cycles & the spirits of the wild, revere freedom, visit vengeance upon those who bring harm to them or those they love and to hear the lamentation of their womenfolk.

Next, Slaydar will need to find such a group and candidates to take on important roles within it. Particularly, someone healthy, young not too psychopathic and d-b perceptive enough to see the wisdom of those more experienced, if, perhaps, less physically able.

19.2 Award for The Subliminal Court - Artephius

DM Jim Arona

Artephious leaves on 24th day of Fruit 825 WK. He arrives in the Rift Valley of Nualis on the 1st day of Meadow 825 WK, and may engage in training with the Grigorii for 40 days, who reduce the Experience cost of any Artisan or Professional Skill by a further 10%. After this, he is transported to the Underworld where he was tasked with mowing the banks of the Styx until returning to Seagate on the 30th day of Harvest 826 WK.

Artephious can invest an image from his memory or imagination into a Crystal of Vision that he creates. This boon is granted him by Styx, who thinks of Artephious as Her hairdresser and likes to be advised of the latest fashions.

An oath taken in Her name and in his presence attracts Her attention if it is broken. In particular, an oath taken in Her name that is broken by a deity or power of Her pantheon "must lie breathless until a full year is completed, and never come near to taste ambrosia and nectar, but lie spiritless and voiceless on a strewn bed: and a heavy trance overshadows them. But when They have spent a long year in Their sickness, another penance more hard follows after the first. For nine years They are cut off from the eternal gods and never joins Their councils or Their feasts, nine full years. "

This has no affect on Hades, who does not need to breathe, could not give a tiny rat's bottom about Olympus but, to be fair, rarely breaks His given word.

19.3 Award for The Subliminal Court - Ishamael

DM Jim Arona

Ishamael leaves on 24th day of Fruit 825 WK and returns to Seagate on the 30th day of Harvest 825 WK and, now, is armigerous, entitled to the sumptuary privileges of the lowest rank of the gentry, and his successors are considered gently born.

He has been admitted to the Chthonic Order as a deacon and may be styled that way. They do not engage in evangelism or pastoral care. Indeed, most members would not understand such things. They are inquisitorial, often deal with breaches of mortality, and are casually clandestine.

The order does not like indignities that are offered to corpses and opposes animating the dead, especially when relatives are involved. Otherwise, however, they pursue that sort of thing in a fairly desultory way. They take a much more animated approach when the undead are sentient, and distinctly alarmed if life-draining is involved. If the numbers of undead seem to be increasing, they will likely convoke an Inquisition to deal with it.

They are fanatically pursuant of those that mock Hades, and will, sub poena mortis, bend every effort to bring them to his court to discuss the matter. This is usually a short sentence with a very large full stop.

In this adventure, Ishamael has served Hades well, which, given His well-deserved reputation for being a grumpy old bugger, you'd never know. However, he has been awarded 5 obols, the coins used to cover the eyes of the dead, a currency that is widely respected. Well. Feared.

Ishamael may use one of these coins to buy safe passage (for him and his allies) between mortal realms by way of the Underworld, even places that are separated by the Abyss. This travel must begin by dusk, arriving, usually, before dawn whereupon everyone is drained of an amount equal to the size of the party. This will track from Fatigue to Endurance with no barrier between these reserves and cannot be Healed by magic or Skill. Drain from Fatigue can be restored in the usual way, but Endurance drain must be recovered by means of Natural Healing. Only those who cannot die can avoid or mitigate it.

Frequent travellers in sufficient favour can acquire a Season Pass at a cost of 10 obols. This entitles them to use the Underworld once per season, which expires upon death, however temporary.
